Antioch Cops Nab Burglar In The Act

by PATTY KOROM

Burglars were stopped in their tracks by the Antioch Police Dept. during a Dec. 29 burglary attempt at Antioch Pizza located on Rte. 59.

Officers responded to the call at 12:04 a.m. when the silent burglar alarm was tripped by the would-be burglars.

Patrolman Jim Forrester answered the call, arriving as two males were leaving the rear entrance of the building.

Forrester apprehended one suspect after a chase through a nearby field. The suspect has been identified as Robert Romiss, 22, of Cicero. Romiss has been charged with burglary. The other suspect has not been apprehended.

Antioch Pizza manager, Richard Zeman, said that the pair gained access through the rear door by prying it open with a six-foot pry bar.

Although no money was reported to be missing, Zeman said that his office had been ransacked and a telephone system valued at $2,000 had been completely destroyed.

The intruders also tried, but failed to open the store's safe with the six foot pry bar.

Nothing else in the store was damaged, according to Zeman, but the burglars did eat a small amount of pepperoni and a pudding pop that was in the freezer.

According to Zeman, "I was really pleased by the response of the patrolmen, they did a great job."

Name Lights Winners

Winners of the first annual Christmas tree lighting contest, sponsored by Michael Warren Real Estate, have been announced by Antioch Parks and Recreation Dir. Glenda Tomaschtik.

The purpose of the contest was to encourage residents to light the exterior of their homes, according to Tomaschtik.

The 10 winners, each receiving $25, were:

-the Zmidzinski home at 38881 N. High, Antioch.

-the Hintz home at 795 Valley View Ct., Antioch.

-the Setterlund home at 2411 E. Thornwood Dr., Lindenhurst.

-the Lyons home at 327 Oakwood Dr., Antioch.

-the Tanaschovsky home at 25119 Crawford, Antioch.

-the Guild home at 25174 Circle, Antioch.

-the McClement home at 42521 Linden Ln., Antioch.

-the Baczynski home at 26154 W. Marie Pl., Antioch.

-the Brundage home at 312 Elmwood Dr., Antioch.

-the Tomala home at 26654 W. Klondike, Antioch.

As judges were touring the area they saw some homes that were not entered in the contest that deserved to be noted, these homes were given honorable mention by the judges:

-229 Hickory St., Antioch.

-208 Edgewood, Antioch.

-375 Harden St., Antioch.

"I appreciate all of the homeowners who went to such pains to decorate their homes for Christmas and thus beautify our community," said Michael Warren, president of Century 21 Michael Warren and Co.

1986 Sales Up For Antioch's Stores

by PATTY KOROM

With the close of the Christmas season, Antioch retailers have begun to take a look at the past year's sales and to develop goals for 1987.

The new year will bring some changes to the downtown especially in the redevelopment area.

Stores on the east side of Main St. will no doubt benefit from the added parking space, done largely through the efforts of the redevelopment commission.

According to Chamber of Commerce President, Larry Hansen, "Growth will depend on everybody working together to bring business into the downtown area."

Hansen, also an employee at B.J.'s, said that the holiday sales were slow to start but that they really flourished the last two days.

Antioch Readers Share New Year Resolutions

The new year will hopefully bring many new and exciting events into peoples lives. New Year's resolutions, can often be the beginning of the bigger (or smaller in some cases) and the better...Here's what some of Antioch's famous and not so famous people have resolved for 1987...

Mayor Raymond Toft "I would like to see Antioch just try to continue the orderly growth that we've seen in the past."

Ted Axton, President First National Bank "I'm going to do everything within my power to reach six feet eight inches so that my weight will correlate with my height."

Trustee Vern Barnstable "I hope the community keeps going like it did in 1986 and I hope that everyone has a prosperous and happy new year."

Police Chief, Chuck Miller "To strive for good community relations with the public."

Beach Park School Teacher "To laugh hard once a day."

Local Musician "I plan to get more sleep."

Calling For No Politics In Incorporation Vote

The Committee for the Incorporation of Liberty Lakes has answers for those who claim it does not have a sufficient tax base and that the proposal also is not compatible with the county's framework plan.

According to Linda Brackett, publicist for the Liberty Lakes Committee, the decision to put the incorporation of Liberty Lakes on the April ballot will not be left to political power plays.

The proposal for Liberty Lakes, placed before the Lake County Board for review, has been withdrawn. The committee for incorporation feels that the proposal cannot receive a fair and impartial hearing.

The incorporation proposal expresses a strong commitment to implementing the Lake County framework plan and zoning ordinances. Citizens of the areas included in the Liberty Lakes proposal have overwhelmingly supported this approach and embraced the stated objectives of the framework plan.

The county framework plan states, "...the county's favorable reputation as a desirable housing area depends upon preserving some of its open country character, before the very qualities which have attracted growth are diminished or lost."

The county has spent thousands of dollars developing this comprehensive plan to preserve the rural nature of Lake County, while stil providing for orderly growth. Liberty Lakes wants to take advantage of the framework plan and save taxpayers the additinal thousands of dollars it would cost to develop its own plan.

"Carefully planned growth" is not "no growth." "Carefully planned growth" does imply not filling in critical wetlands and portions of a lake to build apartment buildings; and not allowing the type of development that will eventually put 4,000 people on 220 acres of buildable land; and further not allowing homes to be built on lots that are known to flood or are located in known flood plain areas.

Liberty Lakes doesn't plan to be another Lindenhurst. Nor does it plan to be another Lake Villa or Round Lake Beach. None of these villages have adopted the county framework plan; rather, they have spent taxpayers' dollars to develop their own plans.

Regarding the issue of open space, Lindenhurst's Mayor Robert Ratch says, "If you want open space, you should move to Montana, Wyoming or even western Illinois."

To this the residents of Liberty Lakes respond, "We have open space now. This is our land, this is our future, this is our way of life!"

No one has disputed the estimated assessed valuation of Liberty Lakes. The $65 million of assessed valuation is higher than any of the neighboring villages, a sufficient tax base to provide for necessary services.

A further point of concern seems to be the definition of "necessary" services. The areas included in the proposed village already have services provided. The Liberty Lakes incorporation proposal recommends continuing the existing services.

The roads will continue to be maintained. Police protection for the area will not disappear. The county sheriff is required by law to continue to provide protection for any village that does not have its own police department.

The Liberty Lakes proposal recommends continuing this protection and enhancing it by contracting for additional protection during peak hours of need.

The real issue is proper representation of the desires of the people living in the unincorporated areas. When a village wants to annex desirable areas for planned growth, it does not ask for the approval of the residents of the unicorporated area. But these residents share in the increased tax burden created, for example, by additional students coming into a school district from the newly developed area.

Residents of the unicorporated areas cannot stop neighboring villages from annexing adjacent lands. When the residents of the unincorporated areas asked the county board to represent them, they were told that there were no powers available to the county board to stop these annexations. Township officials have also been frustrated in their efforts to have the unincorporated areas remain outside of village limits.

Many villages have already carved up the unincorporated areas and have plans for them on paper. The county is powerless to stop further annexations. According to Brackett, if the residents in the Liberty Lakes want to have any influence on what happens to the future of the area, they must incorporate.

For further information, contact Brackett at (312)356-7184.

St. Peter's Sponsors Ribs 'N Bibs

Lambs To Host Cycle Races

Over 200 motorcycle racers from the midwest will compete in the fifth annual Yamaha Midwest Championship Ice Races on Jan. 11 and 18 at Lambs Farm in Libertyville.

On both Sundays, spectators will be treated to five hours of action-packed ice racing on the frozen Lambs' Lake. Seventeen classes of motorcycles will be run each weekend, from the smallest class, the pee wees, to the large open-pro motorcycles. As an added attraction, an open class of three- and four-wheel ATVs has been included.

Yamaha Motor Corp. U.S.A, through its participating local dealers, will have a display of new 1987 Yamaha motorcycles and ATVs. Children ages seven to 12 can test ride Yamaha four-wheel ATVs with parental consent and a $1 donation to The Lambs. ATV test drives will take place in the Yamaha corral loacted in The Lambs' Children's Farmyard.

Racing practice begins at 10:30 a.m., and the races start at noon. All of Lambs' shops and restaurant will be open for the races. Hot chili, other food and beverages will be available at the races.

The Lambs, located at the junction of Rtes. 176 and I-94 in Libertyville, is a non-profit organization offering vocational and residential support services to mentally retarded adults. For more information, call (312)362-6774.

Adler Offers Classes

Registration for the winter class and workshop session at David Adler Cultural Center will be held on Saturday, Jan. 10, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Registration may also be done by mail or phone. To obtain registration forms or more information, call the Adler Center Jan. 2 through 10, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

Residence or membership is not necessary for participation. Private music lessons are also available. Classes begin Jan. 19 and are usually 10 weeks, ending March 28.

Children's classes include: children's ceramics, sculpture, children's art I and II, young people's art, beginning French, Irish stepdancing, Suzuki violin and piano.

Adult classes include: watercolor, portraiture, oil painting/drawing, calligraphy, ceramics, advertising and design, and introduction to cartooning.

Workshops will include: Shaker cheese basket making, beginning wheat weaving, fabric painting, Valentine basket making, watercolor, spring basket making, and wheat weaving Welsh fan.

Fete Families At Museum

Beginning Jan. 22, the Field Museum presents a new special exhibit entitled "Families: A Celebration of Love, Diversity and Commitment." This photographic exhibit affirms, illumines and celebrates the diversity of contemporary American family life as seen from the child's point of view.

Thirteen different family groupings are represented, each with photographs and interview comments from one child in the family. "Families" will be on display through April 15.

"Families" was conceived and designed by the Boston Children's Museum in Boston.

The exhibit space for "Families" includes an activity center where parents and children can sit and talk about the exhibit. Children (and adults) can add their comments and family "portraits" to the exhibit, using the crayons, pencils, and scrap paper provided.

It is one of the many exciting new exhibits and programs that will comprise the "new look" of the Field Museum in 1987.

Masons Assist

The Sequoit Lodge No. 827 A.F. and A.M. Lodge has begun its annual distribution of foodstuffs to needy families during the Christmas season. Unlike previous years, where actual food baskets were delivered, this year's efforts have resulted in the needy receiving generous gift certificates redeemable in food at local grocery stores. This year's Christmas aid committee was chaired by Clarence Larson, with the assistance of Jim Larson and M.J. Mortensen, who are presently officers of Sequoit Lodge.

Offer Model Sketching

The David Adler Cultural Center each Monday offers "Sketch Night," which presents the opportunity for the independent artist to sketch from a live model. Participating artists will be exhibiting their works at the center Jan. 17 through Feb. 28.

A reception for the opening of the exhibit will take place on Saturday, Jan. 17, 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.. Daily viewing hours for the exhibition are Tuesday through Saturday from 1 until 4 p.m.

The public will be offered the unique occasion to view the works of these talented artists in a group exhibition. For additional information on "Sketch Night" and the exhibit, call (312) 367-0707.

Antioch High School's fine arts department sponsored a 'Dickens Festival' that included ACHS students caroling. The festival was held in various spots of the school and featured strolling singers and replicas of candelmaking, glassworks and other shops besides other events that took visitors back to 'Merry Old England" during the time of Charles Dickens. — Photo by Steve Young.

Exhibit Continues

Arthur Thrall, winner of over 75 awards, whose art work can be found in museum collections throughout the world, will continue to show his prints in a special Christmas/New Year exhibit at the University of Dubuque.

Thrall's exhibit, with a main focus on oil paintings and opaque water colors inspired by a three-week stay in Finland in 1985, originally was held at the university Nov. 9 through Dec. 20. The show will continue in Alumni Hall through Jan. 10. Appointments can be made by calling (312)589-3222.

A total of approximately 30 works are showcased. Thrall, who lives in Appleton, Wis., and teaches in the art department at Lawrence University in Appleton, has participated in over 500 exhibitions and has been a guest and visiting artist in London and Finland. He has twice been appointed visiting professor of art at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Television Launches Tourism Boost

The Illinois Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs office of tourism is launching a three-week television advertising campaign to encourage residents of Illinois and neighboring states to take advantages of the state's winter events and activities.

Dubbed "Let's get back at Mother Nature for all she's dumped on us," the 30-second commercial will highlight activities like downhill and cross-country skiing, sledding, ice skating and snowmobiling.

It will air in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri as part of DCCA's $10 million tourism ad effort, now in its third year.

DCCA Director Jay Hedges said it is the first time DCCA is using winter to boost tourism in Illinois. "People often shudder when they think of winter, and only wish it would go away. We're saying winter is an enjoyable time of year for those who take advantage of it, and we want more people to adopt this positive view."

The commercial includes a toll-free information number, (800)223-0121, through which a complimentary guide to Illinois winter activities may be obtained.

Produced by Zechman and Associates Advertising, Inc. of Chicago, the commercial begins its three-week run on Jan. 5.

Ice Giants To Arise At Carving Fest

Brookfield Zoo will become the land of the giants when it hosts "Ice Giants" on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 2-4.

Huge blocks of ice will be transformed into beautiful animals. Watch as a walrus, hippo, elephant, and Kodiak bear take shape at the hands of experienced ice sculptors.

On Sunday, Jan. 4, a novice ice carving competition, sponsored by the National Ice Carving Assn., will take place from 12:30 to 2 p.m.

Spectators are invited to try their hand at this icey art on each day from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. First-time sculptors may find this activity a bit slippier than expected.

Zoo hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. For additional information contact the zoo at (312)485-0263.

Information provided will include the job search process and how to keep a job. Cost for the two-day workshop is $4. For more information or to register, call (312)662-4247.

Pain Support Meeting Set

The Chronic Pain Support Group of Lake County will hold its January meeting from 7 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 9, at the Victory Intermediate Care Center in Gurnee. Featured guest will be a local CPA who will talk about medical deductions and disability pay in conjunction with income tax preparation. All persons with chronic pain are welcome, and a free-will donation will be accepted at the door. For more information, call Carol Eustace at (312)356-5389.

Hunters Take Record

Illinois deer hunters harvested a record 36,059 whitetail during the 1986 firearm season, according to an unofficial count made by wildlife biologists following the second half of the season. Hunters took 9,200 deer during the three-day December firearm hunt.

The harvest exceeded last year's deer kill by 4,370.

"While this year's hunt easily exceeded last year's record harvest of 31,689 deer, it's still a little lower than we anticipated," said Forrest Loomis, head of the deer program for the Dept. of Conservation. "We expected more deer to be taken during the second half of the season, but cold weather in the northern half of the state kept a lot of hunters home that weekend."

Loomis said that Pike County led the state in harvest totals for the season, with 1,491 deer taken. Pike was followed by Adams County with 1,361; Jo Daviess with 1,351; and Pope 1,283. Other top producing counties included Jackson, 991; Hancock, 856; Randolph, 735; Union, 734; Johnson, 721; Carroll, 720; Fulton, 707; and Brown, 705.

Pike led all counties in harvest for the second half of the season with 409 deer. Other top producing counties during the second half of the season were: Jo Daviess, 350; Adams, 342; Crab Orchard Refuge Special Hunt, 255; Jackson, 253; Hancock, 225 and Randolph, 209.

Records indicated that more than 93,000 firearm deer permits were issued for the 1986 hunt, which means that better than one of every three hunters harvested a white-tailed deer.

One fatality was reported in Pike County during the second half of the firearm hunting season.

Sheriff Enforces Parking Ordinance

Sheriff Robert Babcox announced that the Lake County Sheriff's Police began issuing parking citations Dec. 19 for vehicles in violation of the new Lake County Parking Ordinance.

"With winter weather creating severe driving hazards, we must do whatever we can to keep our county highways, roads, and bridges free from parked vehicles that are in violation of county and state traffic laws," said Babcox.

"Special attention will be given to those vehicles parked in violation of the two-inch snowfall section. Anytime a vehicle is parked on any state or county highway, or township road in a subdivision where appropriate signs have been posted, at any time withing 12 hours after a snowfall of two inches or more has occured, or until the snow is removed, that vehicle will be towed away at the expense of the owner," he said.

The Sheriff's deputies will also be on the lookout for those violators who park in "No Parking" zones and especially in Handicap Parking zones. Those violators will be subject to a $50 fine and their vehicle will be towed.

Other fines will be $35 unless paid within seven calendar days, for which the fine will be reduced to $15.

Offer Tips For Winter Motorists

The spinning wheels of stuck cars are as common to winter as snow. AAA-Chicago Motor Club has some suggestions to help a driver stuck in snow.

Do not accelerate to the point where the wheels spin. The auto's tires will get hot, melt the snow and deepen the rut.

First, turn the steering wheel from left to right to clear snow away from the front tires. Then, keeping the wheels as straight as possible, attempt to drive slowly out of the deep snow.

If that doesn't work, shovel away as much snow as you can from the vehicle's wheels and under the car. Spread sand or salt around the drive wheels and try again.

AAA-CMC says caution should be used if people push a stuck vehicle. Chunks of snow, ice and rocks could be dangerous projectiles propelled by the auto's spinning wheels.

Offer Scripture Course

Snowy Days To Delight Moms And Children Too

by CAROLYN HAMMOND
(312) 395-6081

Here comes the snow! Although we didn't have a white Christmas, maybe it will be a white New Years. Think of all the children's delight as they awoke on Monday to snow falling. Think of all the mothers' glee as they realized that maybe the children would be playing outside for a change.

Other outside activities still are in abeyance as the year speeds to its end; but as school reconvenes on Jan. 5, it's business as usual.

The Antioch Band Parents' Assn. will hold its first meeting of 1987 at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 5 at the Antioch Upper Grade School cafeteria.

On Tuesday, Jan. 6, the Antioch chapter of Woman's Aglow Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the State Bank of Antioch. The special speaker will be Patricia Steele Campbell, president of the Waukegan chapter of Woman's Aglow Fellowship. Admission is $1.50.

Another asset to our community is our Antioch Twp. Library with its many programs for all ages. Storytime is conducted for pre-schoolers four times a week to encourage them to develop a love for reading. School-agers can meet twice weekly for programs geared to them.

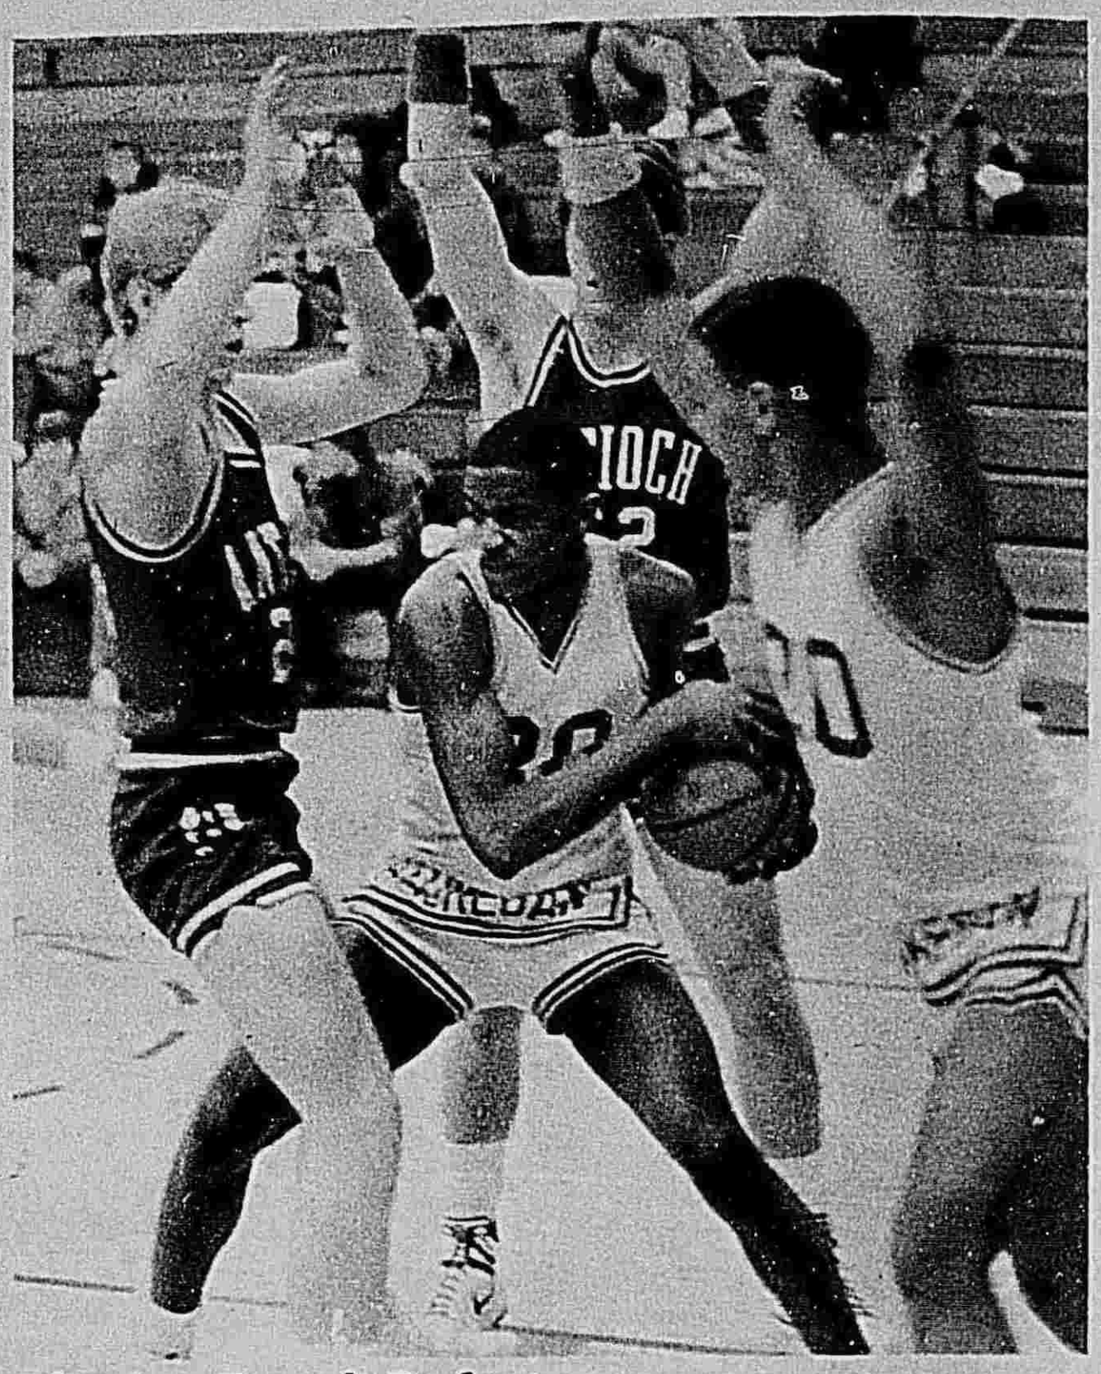

In this day and age of tv, video games, etc., reading or the love of it has often become a "lost art." Or at least it has become set aside.

The library will feature the movie, "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," at 2 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 10. Bring your child and get acquainted with the program.

Mark your calendar now and resolve to help your children to get more involved with reading and this local treasure--the library! For more information call (312) 395-0874.

May 1987 be a wonderful year for you and yours!

Resolution

Antioch Grade School teacher "To speak a kind word to someone each day."

Local Heating and Cooling Expert "To be on time."

His Wife "To procrastinate less."

Retired Person "To take off weight."

Local Secretary "To try and put a smile on someone's face each day."

Local Realtor "To love my thighs more because you have to love your body in order to lose weight."

Local Homemaker "To exercise more regularly."

Local Inventor "I have a continuing resolve to leave the world a better place. Not to take thanks for doing something for someone, just pass it on."

Local Homemaker "To encourage people to feel good about themselves."

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

Happy New Year! I trust that all of our readers have made their new year's resolutions and intend to abide by them.

Aren't these resolutions funny things? Once a year we spend a great deal of time deciding what we would like to change about ourselves. Some of us even discuss the various options at length with family and friends.

And then at the stroke of midnight on Dec. 31, we promise to see the resolution through. How many people really do see their new year's resolution through? Maybe there is a statistic somewhere, we have statistics for everything, so there probably is.

Anyway, Annie's New Year's resolution is as follows: To be a little kinder, a lot more patient, and to get my hearing aid fixed so the sports editor won't tell me not to talk so loud.

Have you had a chance to meet the lovely ladies in the Chamber of Commerce office? I stopped by for a few minutes the other day on my walk around town, they were so kind.

There is one thing that I forgot to mention last week, the decorations in the downtown area are really pretty. It is evident that a lot of people spent hours putting them up. The store windows are lovely too.

So many of my friends are preparing to head south these days. I suppose the weather is warmer. Personally, I can't imagine giving up the beautiful snowy days ahead. Life wouldn't be the same if I didn't have a chance to feed the Cardinals and Blue Jays that visit my home every winter.

The children will be going back to school in another week. It's so quiet in the mornings without their chatter as they walk to school.

I heard the other day that Michael Warren has retired as chairman of the redevelopment committee for the downtown area. Al Little has taken over as chairman of the group. Thanks for all you've done Mr. Warren and welcome aboard Mr. Little.

There are so many young people getting involved with Antioch's downtown area, it seems like yesterday that these ladies and gentlemen were just toddlers. Can you believe that Larry Hansen is old enough to be the Pres. of the Chamber of Commerce?

If any of my readers have an interest in politics, remember that village board petitions are now available at the village hall. The petitions must be filed by Jan. 19.

I wish you all a happy and fulfilling 1987, remember to take time for the little things in life.

Complete Course

Pvt. James R. Locke, son of Donna Monks of Chicago and Kenneth Locke of Antioch, has completed the manual dial central office repair course at the U.S. Army Signal School in Fort Gordon, Ga. The course provided instruction in operation, installation, maintenance and repair of manual and automatic voice switching telephone equipment. During the 38 weeks of training, students also received instruction on tactical and fixed plant telephone central office equipment used in military and civilian telephone exchanges.

Redevelopment

"The year overall went well," Hansen said.

King's Drug manager, Wayne Vivirito, said that '86 sales were up slightly and Christmas sales were ahead of last year. "In 1987 we intend to try a few new promotions not only for ourselves, but for our customers as well," Vivirito said.

Don Marski, manager of Ben Franklin, said that the store's holiday sales were slow at first, but picked up the last two days. "The year overalll was our best ever," Marski said. About '87 sales?

Marski said, "We are looking forward to a great '87."

Antioch Globe's sales for 1986 were on line, according to store manager, Donna Zelasko. "We were slightly off at Christmas, but overall the year went well." Zelasko hopes that sales in '87 will be good, but said that spring merchandise hasn't arrived yet so it's hard to determine how sales will be.

First Project Is A Success, Store Opens

The Marines have landed.

Last week, Antioch Redevelopment Commission Chairman Michael Warren and project manager Art Neckerman predicted that the east side of Main St. would, by mid-September, appear as if the Marines had landed due to all the work that would be going on.

Bran's Nuts, the first retailer attracted to the Antioch area through the efforts of the redevelopment commission, opened its doors for business on Saturday, Sept. 6. This is the fourth store to be opened by Bran's Nuts owners William and Francis Collins. Their other outlets are in Wauconda, Lake Barrington, and Lake Zurich.

The storefront that the company now occupies was previously the site of E.J.'s Camera. It has been vacant since E.J.'s left, more than a year ago.

The redevelopment commission represents the joint efforts of village officials, local business people, and private volunteers to preserve the historic character of Antioch while expanding its economic base. Funds for the commission are generated through the creation of a tax incremental financing district (TIF), a special temporary district that provides additional tax revenue to be used for the purpose of economic development. For 23 years, all property tax revenue in the designated area that is greater than the amount collected in the base year is turned over to the TIF.

Other redevelopment projects that are expected to be completed within the next few weeks are the parking area for the mall project and Antioch's Rotary Park. Rotary Park is being underwritten by the Antioch Rotary Club.

Crime

Police Arrest Two Women In Forgery Scam

Two women--one from Antioch--went on a six-day holiday shopping spree with an estimated $20,000 of forged checks in November. But the day after Christmas the two did not pass "Go," did not collect $200 and ended up in the poor house.

Following an investigation with the help of 11 Illinois police departments, Antioch and Fox Lake police caught up with the forgery scam of Alicia Larson, 22, of Schaumburg, and Cynthia Lloyd, 25, of Antioch.

On Dec. 27, a $250,000 bond was set for Larson, who is awaiting sentencing in the Lake County jail. Lloyd, who police arrested on a $50,000 warrant, was scheduled to appear in court on Dec. 30.

The two women were sitting pretty after their Nov. 15-21 shopping extravaganza. They purchased furniture, stereo equipment, a VCR, a large-screen television, clothes, toys, to name a few items. According to police, they often brought along Lloyd's five-year-old son and rented a U Haul truck to move the furniture.

According to Fox Lake and Antioch police, the scam started in May following the theft of a purse belonging to Colleen Follmann from her car in the Oak Brook Shopping Center.

Horses Starve On Farm

The Department of Agriculture has filed charges against J.R. Baker under the Humane Care for Animals Act. The charges are for failure to provide adequate food and water, and vetrinary care to more than 40 horses on his Deep Lake Rd. farm, and for failure to dispose of dead animals.

The farm, known as Liberty Retreat, is a alcohol and substance abuse treatment center as well as a place to board horses. Donna Ewing of the Barrington based Illinois Hoofed Animal Humane Society said that her group had been dealing with Baker for two years, but that in the past few weeks the situation had deteriorated so much that the group had to take stronger action.

"It was never as bad as it has been the last month," said Ewing.

Ewing said that in the past, Baker had always complied to the best of his ablity when the group complained. "He's a pretty good horseman when he's sober," said Ewing

Sports

Prize Schedule Tops $55,000 For Ice Derby

Antioch will become the ice fishing capitol of the midwest when the Northern Illinois Conservation Club stages its annual ice fishing derby Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 8 and 9.

More than $55,000 in prizes has been posted for the 1986 event, it was announced by Norm Rockow, NICC president.

Participation is expected to exceed 7,000 anglers for the two-day event which has been expanded to three locations, Rockow reported. With favorable weather, attendance could exceed 10,000.

Headquarters will be located at Channel Lake. As a new feature this year, satellite or "mini" derbies will be running concurrently at the north end of Petite Lake and Pistakee Lake, McHenry County, in front of Pinky Harrison's Resort.

All three contest centers will be linked by radio communication. The goal is to get as much participation as possible, Rockow declared.

All the frigid fishing will be aimed at claiming the top prize, a tagged fish worth $25,000 being sponsored by Budweiser.

Three tagged fish worth $10,000 each are being sponsored by Coca Cola, Stroh's and Old Style.

Berkley & Co. of Spirit Lake, Iowa, fishing rod manufacturer and maker of the famed Trilene fishing line, has posted $1,500 worth of fishing gear to be awarded.

In addition, NICC will be honoring 1,800 previously tagged fish at $25 each, according to Rockow.

There will be hourly prizes awarded in nine fish categories and scores of other prizes available.

School Reform Loses

The Lake County School Reorganization Committee presided over o brief and somewhat subdued reorganization hearing held at the Antioch Community High School on March 10.

A bill signed earlier that day by Gov, James Thompson may have been the reason for the hearing being so brief. The main provision of the bill stated that while reorganization committees were still required to hold public hearings, they were no longer required to submit some form of reorganization plan.

Although about 50 people attended the hearing, only two had signed up to testify by the time the committee members took their seats. Committee chairman Bill Thompson urged others in the audience to sign in for testimony.

Controversy

Republicans Spat

The feud between Antioch Twp. Republican Club Chairman Chuck Kempf and Twp. Super Jim Fields show no sign of cooling off.

In last week's issue of the News-Reporter, Fields was quoted as having said that he was not happy with Kempf, in part, because, "...when we went to the county endorsement meeting, Chuck got up and spoke in endorsement of (Venita) McConnell (for county clerk). That was not what the township organization voted to do and it was a slap at all the committeemen in Antioch who supported (Donna-Mae) Litwiler."

Let's Break A Holiday Tradition!

Every year at this time, we're barraged from all sides by "Don't drink and drive" messages. That's still the best advice — but unfortunately, not enough of us take it seriously. And, because we don't, hundreds of people will die in alcohol-related accidents during the Christmas and New Year's holiday period.

Christmas and New Year's — traditionally a time of celebration. That means there are going to be lots of parties — and a scary number of inebriated drivers on our streets and highways.

If you care about yourself, you won't drink and drive. And, if you care about your friends, you won't let them drive while under the influence.

Let's break a holiday tradition — the tradition of carnage on our highways because of an alcohol related accident! Watch out for the other guy and — know your own limits and take care of yourself!

Let's let this tradition fade away into history!

This message for a safe holiday is sponsored by these fine Lakeland area businesses

2nd Term Blues Haunt Our Chief Executives

by JOHN STEINKE

From George Washington to Ronald Reagan, American history offers plenty of examples of presidents whose second terms turned sour. After serving the final year of John F. Kennedy's term, Lyndon B. Johnson was elected in 1964 by the greatest popular vote margin in history. But his mandate was undermined by the Vietnam War and growing domestic dissent about the U.S. role in Southeast Asia. Additional adverse factors included "campus unrest," "ghetto violence," a "white backlash" against the Great Society social-welfare programs and civil rights legislation benefiting minorities and the poor.

Steinke On Politics

Under the impact of these events, the Democratic coalition (big city machines, white ethnic groups, blacks, Jews, Latinos, organized labor, progressive farmers of the Middle West, Southerners, suburban liberals and intellectuals) began to disintegrate, contributing to the divisive party split at the 1968 Chicago convention. Richard M. Nixon's election to the White House reflected public opposition to U.S. intervention in Vietnam, contrary to Democratic President Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 campaign promise of noninvolvement.

Richard Nixon will go down in history as the president who, in his first term, established the opening to China, initiated detente with the Soviet Union, and negotiated the first major nuclear arms control treaty. Watergate, of course, forced Nixon to cut short his second term by resigning from office. Nixon's second administration was plagued by Vice-President Spiro Agnew's resignation, the 1973-74 oil embargo, double-digit inflation, worsening unemployment, the Senate Watergate hearings, and the House impeachment inquiry. The negative congressional and public reaction to Nixon's involvement in the Watergate affair forced him out of the presidency in late 1974.

Now, will Ronald Reagan finish his second term with diminished power and influence? By last summer, political observers were predicting that Reagan's term in office would be an historic presidency. He had restored America's confidence in itself and he had reestablished the notion of a president viewed with respect and affection by a large percentage of the public. The economy was flourishing, the American military had been rearmed, and the first woman was appointed to the Supreme Court. Under his leadership, Congress reformed a ponderous and outmoded tax system. U.S. forces occupied Grenada to protect American students from a pro-Marxist regime. Twice, Reagan ordered the bombing of Libya to protest Moammar Gadhafi's support of international terrorism.

Since last summer, the Reagan administration has staggered from one problem to another. Reagan opposed economic sanctions against South Africa and made a poor deal in trading Soviet KGB agent Gennady Zakharov for American journalist Nicholas Daniloff. He blundered into the Icelandic summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on nuclear arms negotiations unsuspecting and unprepared. The White House has been caught advocating a policy of lying to the American news media as part of a plan to destabilize Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi. It also was exposed in supporting an arms supply mission to the Nicaraguan contras that went awry. It resulted in the capture and trial of Eugene Hasenfus by the Sandinista government. Then came Irangate involving Reagan's secret arms deal with Iran and the diversion of profits to fund the Nicaraguan contras. Once again, the country must ask the agonizing question: What did the President know, and when did he forget it?

Oh, those second-term blues!!!

County To Assess Fines

Home and business owners are reminded that as of Jan. 1, fees are to be levied on false alarms, Lake County Sheriff Robert H. Babcox said.

"However, no charge will be assessed for the first three times," he added.

That changes though, when the fourth and fifth false alarms occur. Then it will cost $25. Any false alarm thereafter will carry a $50 fine with it.

The "alarm systems" ordinance was amended in March, 1986, by the Lake County Board, Babcox said.

The term, "false alarm" means an alarm signal resulting from a malfunction, improper installment or subscriber error.

"The fee will be effective for any 12-month period. Each year starts again with three 'free' false alarms," Babcox said.

Prospective subscribers should be aware that private alarm contractors are licensed by the State Dept. of Registration and Education.

A copy of the ordinance may be obtained by contacting the local public library or telephoning the Sheriff's Department Communications Center at (312) 680-3550, Babcox concluded.

Issue Influenza Alert

The flu or various symptoms identified as influenza occur more frequently during the winter months.

Influenza is a viral infection, and as such, warrants special attention because a swift and deadly children's disease is associated with it.

The disease, Reye's Syndrome, affects children from infancy through late adolescence and can develop three to five days after the onset of chicken pox, an upper respiratory illness, or other viral infections.

It affects the liver and brain, is non-contagious, and is often misdiagnosed as encephalitis, menangitis, diabetes, poisoning, drug overdose or suddent infant death.

After a viral infection has seemingly run its course and the child is feeling better, the following symptoms should be treated as serious and as possibly the first indications of Reye's Syndrome.

Anti-nausea medication may mask the symptoms of the disease and because of the possible association of aspirin with Reye's Syndrome, parents should consult their physician before using these drugs. Watch for these symptoms, usually occurring in this order:

–Relentless or continuous vomiting;

–Listlessness (loss of pep and energy, drowsiness);

–Personality change (such as irritability, combativeness or slurred speech);

–Disorientation (unable to identify whereabouts or family members);

–Delirium, convulsions.

A child's life can depend on early diagnosis. Reye's Syndrome should be suspected in any child with chicken pox who vomits repeatedly.

Phone a physician immediately if these symptoms develop and tell him or her that Reye's Syndrome is suspected.

Two liver function tests (SGOT/SGPT) can be done to determine the possibility of Reye's Syndrome. There is a 90 percent chance of recovery when the syndrome is treated in its earliest stages by physicians and nurses experienced in the treatment of Reye's.

The U.S. Surgeon General, the Food and Drug Administration, and the Center for Disease Control recommend that aspirin and combination products containing aspirin not be given to children 18 years of age and under during episodes of these illnesses.

Creating More Jobs

One of the phrases sure to be sounded with ringing repetition in the coming year is "job creation" or "jobs creation." The phrase is a more down-to-earth explanation of economic development, which has been part of the political lexicon since the last recession. You can call job creation a blue collar version of economic development.

Creating jobs really is what economic development is all about. Economic development has sort of an academic tone, a touch of mystique. The earthy quality of job creation gets the process down to where it belongs, the grassroots level, and not something that can only be attended to in Washington or Springfield, or perhaps some industrial ivory tower in Detroit or Dallas.

In our mind, creating a job can be done right here in our own community. We don't have to look to the professional politicians for leadership. A friendly hand from the fillage council or helpful advice from the local building commissioner can go just as far (probably farther) in creating local jobs than hot air created by the brass hats, if you're talking about government's role. As far as the private sector goes, the Chamber of Commerce has its role. And you can't beat the boost to creating jobs given by an understanding and resourceful local banker.

The problem with government in creating jobs is that it either approaches the task from a "make work" perspective or heaping regulations on business and industry that hamstring growth. U.S. Sen. Paul Simon (D-Ill.) recognizes the need for jobs creation, but his $8 billion proposal smacks too much of the old New Deal welfarism. Political leaders in both parties in Springfield talk a good game about economic development (jobs creation), but when they are faced with the opportunity to do something, they are more apt to revert to old ways that forge ahead with new and innovative methods.

The Democrats, for example, because of their ties to labor, are paralyzed when it comes to lifting workmen's and unemployment compensation burdens carried by business, even in the face of crying need for reform. The Republicans aren't much better. Two bills designed to create jobs were termed "unaffordable" by the Thompson administration. One would have provided bonuses for welfare recipients to take low-paying jobs. The other would have permitted welfare recipients taking seasonal jobs to be reinstated for public aid immediately upon being laid off.

If the federal government is serious about jobs creation, do things like lowering the minimum wage, restore the investment tax credit and repeal the Davis-Bacon Act, which mandates artificially high wages on government construction jobs. If state legislators are serious, let's enact substantial reform of compensation requirements. Village officials can get into the act, too, by eliminating silly, costly building and zoning requirements, needless inspections and other requirements adding to the cost of doing business without adding anything else.

Everyone can get into the act in creating jobs in 1987. But they'll have to be breaking old ties and eliminating old ways. No doubt about it, jobs can be created, but it takes more than lip service.

11 Reasons Why '87 Won't Be Easy Year For Your Columnist

by BILL SCHROEDER

Happy New Year!

Breaking with long-standing tradition, this columnist is making an honest effort to share his new year's resolutions. And stick to them! That's the secret of making them work.

1. No second helpings.
2. Play some golf.
3. Contain the blood pressure when saccharin-tongued telephone receptionists coo, "Hold, please," before even asking who you are or what your call is about.
4. Pass up desserts.
5. Get some use out of the family boat.
6. Use available tools and talents to do a better job helping combat the spread of drug abuse.
7. Work to eliminate the 55 mph speed limit.
8. Eat light lunches.
9. Take the lady of the house out for dinner more.
10. Stop worrying about the Cubs.
11. Learn to tolerate garlic.

One shy of an even dozen seems more than enough resolutions to deal with during the coming 12 months. Good luck on your resolutions and good health for 1987.

HURTFUL YULETIDE—Len Glasgow of Lake Villa, one of the Baxter-Travenol personnel released in a pre-holiday cutback, wrote that the job action defied one of the long-standing principals of "last in, first out."

"What's either sad or interesting is that there's a decent amount of people being let go who have been there five to 20 years," wrote Glasgow, a 10-year Travenol veteran. He noted somewhat ruefully that he wasn't fired, but simply "position eliminated." The jobless had a difficult time finding the holidays happy.

RECOVERING—Lakeland's No. 1 ambassador of good will, Marge Tuck, spent the holidays in a hospital in Florida where she and her husband enjoy winter weather now that they are retired from their Chain O'Lakes bait and fishing business.

Marge, always on the go, suffered a heart attack while bicycling. Word is that she is recovering and would enjoy receiving cards and letters mailed to her home, 710 Bouganville Circle, Barefoot Bay, Fla., 32958.

Even though she no longer works Chicago area winter sports shows, Marge still ranks as the leading advocate for Chain O'Lakes tourism and summer recreation.

Letters To The Editor:

Offer Hospice

Dear Editor:

I read with interest your article "Hospices Offer Comfort For The Terminally Ill." It was a fine and concise article outlining hospice care. I thought, however, that it implied that STAR Hospice at St. Therese's was the only hospice providing this service in Lake County. The hospice program of Lake Forest Hospital provides hospice care to all of Lake County. We have just completed 15 months of patient/family care. We also believe that the best way to offer support is to help make it possible for patients to stay in their own homes living as fully and comfortably as possible in familiar surroundings.

Thank you for your effort in recognizing National Hospice Month.

Lots Of 'Smoke'

Editor:

A recent letter referred to the "sad, sad" situation relative to the desire by Arbor Vista residents to give their children an opportunity to attend the Libertyville schools.

I agree that is sad, but for a very different reason. My sister and I moved to Arbor Vista in the early 1970's and transferred from the Libertyville school system, both of us eventually graduating from Warren Twp. High School. From the time we moved to Arbor Vista, we missed what we felt was a much better level of education which we had been receiving from the Libertyville system.

The sadness is that so much "smoke" seems to be a part of the hearings which have dragged on unbelievably long. I commend the residents of Arbor Vista who seem to have a singular goal in mind for their children—a higher level of education to prepare them for the outside world.

It is sad, therefore, that so many other irrelevant issues are being discussed. I wish the Arbor Vista residents success in their endeavor and I only wish such efforts could have been made while we were attending school.

Let's focus on the academic achievements of both school systems as decisions on deannexation are made.

Blame September Flood On Far Away Storms

by MARK BENNO

Right now, somewhere off the coast of South America or in the polar ice caps, our weather for the next few months is being laid out on a giant blueprint. Each snowflake or drop of rain which falls on the Lakeland area is born in the upper air currents of weather systems thousands of miles away.

The easiest way to consider global weather conditions, perhaps, is to imagine that the atmosphere is actually a constantly shifting fluid. This fluid is responsive to fluctuations in pressure, thus producing certain weather conditions in certain areas.

That's why a tropical storm in the South Pacific, for example, can cause a month-long rainy period in West Lake County. Each atmospheric disturbance affects another weather pocket, creating the world's weather through a sort of domino effect.

Mankind, however, until the 20th century, had no real idea of what a global weather system was. Superstition and myth were the generally accepted forms of both explaining and forecasting weather.

The ancient Greeks believed that the gods controlled the weather. Gods such as Zeus, the lightning bolt slinger, and Poseidon, the sea god, were blamed or credited for weather conditions. Many Greeks also subscribed to the notion that good or bad moral behavior affected the weather.

The American Indians of the southwest are well-known for their rain dances. What most people don't know, though, is that rain actually followed many of these bizarre dances.

A possible explanation for this phenomenon is that because of their deep connection to nature, the American Indians developed a sixth sense which told them when a rain dance might prove successful.

Animals remain a constant source of clues to weather forecasting. People throughout the world assign imminent weather conditions to the conduct of some animals. The appearance of a groundhog on Feb. 2 is the most popular North American clue to an early spring.

The migratory pattern of birds, behavior of insects, and animal hibernation are some of the lesser known animal traits used to predict weather found in folklore. Ironically, the old wive's tale about corns and bunions on the feet predicting rain just might be true.

When a person complains that their corn hurts, it could be due to a drop in atmospheric pressure. Since drops in pressure often precede rain, aching corns may be a statistically accurate method to determine short-range weather conditions.

Modern technology may have introduced meteorology as a science, but it is still the science of prediction. Your nightly weather forecast will probably be accurate, but as experience has shown again and again, it might also rain on your parade.

With the inherent difficulties of predicting short-term weather, long-term weather forecasting is virtually impossible. If one thinks of the atmosphere as a fluid again, then it is a physical object which must obey established physical rules. The only problem left is to consider the forces applied to this fluid, and to what end they will result.

But that is an incredibly large problem. After a short period of time, the options to which this fluid can respond grow exponentially. An entire forecast can be scratched simply because certain factors in the weather recipe didn't materialize as planned.

One way to make long-range forecasts with some accuracy is to check weather data from the past, and find a year which follows similar patterns as the one you're trying to predict. North American weather records, however, date back to only the 1870's, which makes finding a "twin" year quite difficult.

This comparison method for forecasting weather will provide dividends in the future. In Britain, for example, the winter of 1963 was one of its coldest and most bitter. It was preceded by unusual conditions in Africa and Norway; if similar conditions appear in these locations again, then Britain could presumably brace for another harsh winter.

Long-range forecasting is, at present, vague. While accuracy may increase in the future, the affect that man has on the weather is yet to be fully determined.

One of the most serious man-made problems affecting the weather is pollution. Acid rain is currently being blamed for decimating much of the Black Forest in the heart of Germany. This is one of the oldest and most delicate ecosystems in the world, and its loss should serve as a warning to the harmful dangers of pollution.

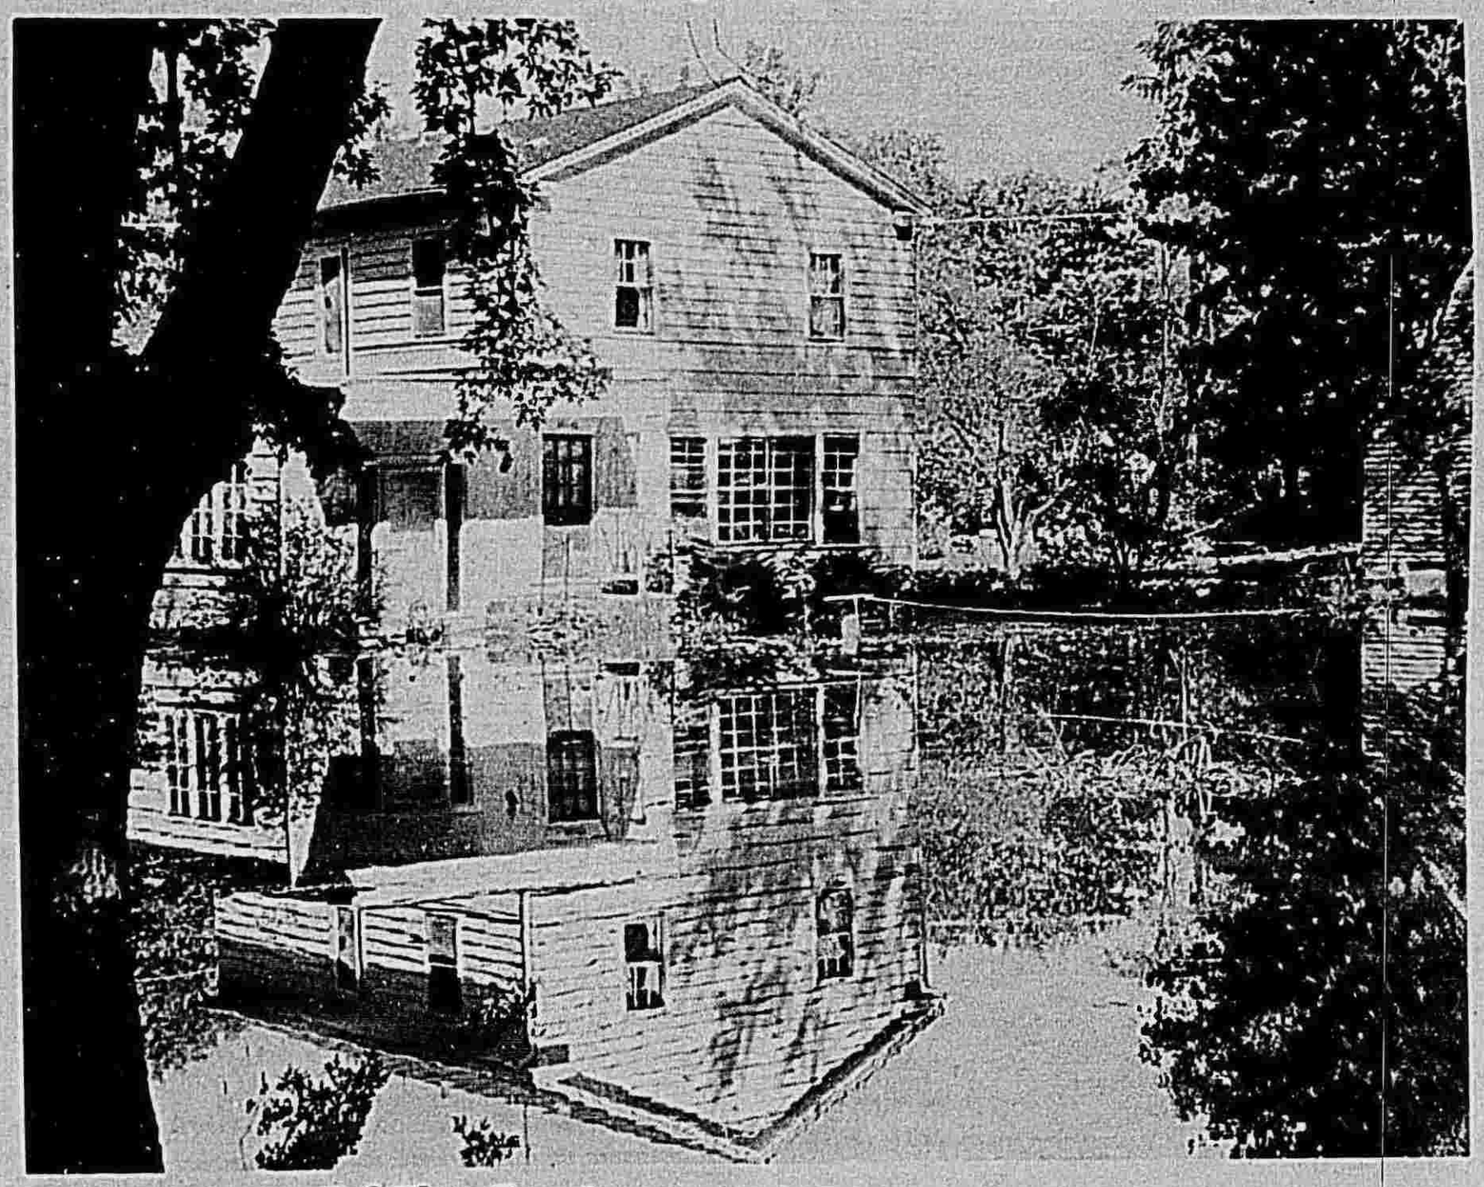

Acid rain is simply any precipitation which falls to the earth through exceptionally thick layers of pollution. The rain acts as transport for the corrosive chemicals floating in the air. When enough acid rains falls on an area, most of the plant life either dies or stops growing.

The "greenhouse effect" is another well publicized weather condition. In this scenario, weather experts predict that the carbon dioxide poured forth from factories will collect in the upper atmosphere. As it collects, it could form a barrier which would block much of the heat whilch normally escapes from the earth's surface.

In such a scenario, the effects would be disastrous. The average temperature of the earth would be raised, thus melting some, if not all, of the earth's ice. This additional water would flood every coastal city on the entire planet, causing major destruction.

Dealing with our own affect on the weather should, perhaps, be our first priority. The Chernobyl incident in the Soviet Union made it painfully obvious that people can't think always in terms of local weather, but of what effect our weather has in a much larger chain of events.

By the way, I saw a rabbit run backwards into the woods last week. I think we're in for a cold winter.

Reflections Of The Past

Peter Grant's home in Antioch was a victim of the worst flooding to hit Lake County in years. He, along with thousands of other residents, finally managed to clean up after a year that featured, besides "the hundred year flood", a green Christmas, bitter cold, and a humid summer. There's really no way to tell what the upcoming winter has in store for Lake County, but early indications point toward light snowfall and below normal temperatures —Photo by Mark Benno.

Bridal Show At Lakehurst

Two Laws Amend Adoption

More children are expected to be freed for adoption in Illinois as a result of two new laws which will go into effect Jan. 1. Sen. Adeline J. Geo-Karis (R-Zion) introduced the measures.

The new laws will permit adoption of a child of an unwed couple on the basis of only the mother's permission, in a situation where the father has failed to provide for the child or maintain contact.

"Often adoption is held up, even though the unwed mother wants the child placed with a family, simply because the unwed father cannot be found or will not approve the adoption," Geo-Karis said. "These new laws allow the state to presume that an unwed father intends to forego his parental rights if he has failed to establish paternity or pay for birthing expenses or the child's maintenance."

Sen. Geo-Karis said fathers who have been denied knowledge of their children and contact with them will not lose their parental rights. "The new laws affect only fathers who are aware that their children have been born and know where they are," she pointed out.

Long In The Tooth

For walruses, getting long in the tooth is something to be proud of. National Wildlife magazine reports that scientists believed that walruses used their yard-long canine teeth to haul themselves up onto the arctic ice. Now researchers think the tusks serve as ornaments to attract mates and intimidate rivals.

Discount Show Tickets Available For Readers

On Wednesday, Jan. 7, the anchor for the 57th Chicago Boat, Sport and RV Show slips into position at McCormick Place on Lake Michigan's shoreline. Thousands of attendees will make recreational travel plans for the upcoming year. It's an opportunity to review the newest in outdoor equipment, how to use it and where, from well over 100 travel displays. Even the mode of transportation can be chosen at the RV section, which includes some 400 vehicles for consideration. Everything may be ordered on the spot during the five-day show. Call (312) 836-4740 for details.

Just across Lake Shore Dr. the 650-room McCormick Center Hotel offers special $52 rates for show attendees, on a per room basis. It's just a short walk to the show. Personal vehicles may be hotel garaged during the stay. Dining and recreational facilities are part of the hotel's $10 million renovation and supplement the famous lakefront view, to make a special occasion of the visit. For information call (312) 791-4956.

Canada is taking a serious look at Chicagoland's interest in its tourism offerings. Dog sleds of display equipment are scheduled for Pheasant Run's new MegaCenter at St. Charles, on Thursday, Jan. 8. Located at North Ave. (Rte. 64) and Rte. 59, it's a Canada Only Show representing fishing and hunting lodges, camps, outfitters and government agencies. Opportunity to chat with hosts will be supplemented with films and video tapes, representative of areas. A cooking demonstration by Quebec's Pierre Faucher, featuring gourmet French-Canadian specialties, is an added attraction. Faucher presents a mountain-man image, but his food preparations extend from lumberjack quantity to connoisseur quality. The show opens Thursday, Jan. 8 at 5 p.m., Friday at 2:30 p.m., and weekends at 11 a.m. Tickets are $5 with a $3 rate for children and seniors.

Halfprice tickets are available to Lakeland readers. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the office at: 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake 60030. Address envelope to Col. Bill and mark the lower right portion "All Canada Show."

Canada has another innovation that may assist travelers. Many first-time passengers arrive at an international airport with no idea of the complex's physical layout. For a trial period, shortly before landing, Air Canada assists passengers on selected flights by presenting an explanatory video tape of terminal facilities. It is accompanied by a brochure, for those who wish it, outlining terminal details and points of interest. Air Canada serves Toronto from Chicago with three daily nonstops.

Amtrak's Snowball Express will roll exuberant skiers into Colorado's Winter Park Resort in mid January. Leaving from Chicago's Union Station on Thursday, Jan. 15, with a stop in Naperville, it arrives at 11 a.m. Friday for a snow oriented mountain fun fest. Round trip fare of $250 includes double occupancy rooms, skiing, sleighing, tubing, related apres-ski evening parties and dining. Two nights lodging is matched with three days of lift tickets and an on-the-mountain barbeque. The trip provides an adventure to remember in deep, natural snow, backgrounded by towering, scenic Colorado mountains. Call (800) 453-2525 for details and a brochure.

With Care, Dog's Bad Habits Can Be Solved

by CHARLENE WHITNEY

If your dog has bad habits such as chewing your furniture, barking or whining a lot, or eliminating in the house, you should be able to correct him.

The key to soliving these problems lies in understanding their causes. Your dog's natural instinct is to please you. He is not misbehaving out of spite. Most behavior problems are related to the effectiveness of the communication between dog and owner.

Pet-Wise

Most misbehavior can be remedied with patience and proper training techniques and by establishing effective communication.

First, you must be certain of what you want your pet to do. Many times, people confuse their dog by changing the rules. The dog may be allowed to jump up on you, but no one else. This is saying yes and no. Decide if he can jump on everyone or no one. He's just not capable of knowing the difference. Keep the same firm rules.

If you must correct the dog, be clear so he will understand. A firm "no" and perhaps a clap of the hands for his attention should give him the message. Do not correct him unless he is caught in the act of misbehaving. He won't know what he did wrong if corrected later; his memory is limited.

When he stops misbehaving and does right, praise him. Any time he does good, freely give him lots of praise.

You should always correct your dog in the same way. He will soon learn which actions you will and won't tolerate.

Never scream at or hit your dog, as he just won't understand. Stay calm, and say "no" clearly and firmly. Never use his name while correcting the dog. He'll not want to come to you when his name is called. Use his name only in a happy, pleasant voice.

Your dog needs and wants your attention. If he only gets attention when he's bad, he may be bad for attention. Play with him and talk to him every day for at least 15 minutes. Give him soemthing to look forward to.

There are four main steps to take for correcting most behavior problems. First, get your dog's - attention. Second, always correct your dog in the same way. Third, provide an acceptable alternative for your pet, and fourth, be sure and praise him for his correct behavior.

Take time to decide on the rules and start enforcing them. It may take a lot of time and effort on your part to correct bad behavior, or it may not take as long as you thought. The time and effort you put into it is truly rewarding for you and your dog. You are happier with a well-mannered pet. Your pet is happier because he knows what is wanted of him–to please you.

3 Super Career Women Also Tops In Kitchen

by GLORIA DAVIS

Three local members of the "superwoman" generation have mastered combining their busy, time-consuming careers, with continuing to turn out fantastic meals from their kitchens, many even falling into the gourmet class.

For two of these busy ladies, cooking is a form of therapy and despite many years of "slaving" over a hot stove for their families(combined count of nine children and two husbands),they still love to more than dabble in their own forms of culinary art.

Florence Babusek, Twin Lakes, and Angela Maras, Antioch, have similar jobs. Babusek is the marketing officer of the State Bank of Antioch and Maras is the marketing and public relations director of Hawthorn Center.

Both have held their demanding positions through the raising of families, Babusek with six children and Maras with three. They learned at an early stage in their careers how to turn out delicious meals that take a limited amount of kitchen time. Both love to cook and it shows.

Despite the fact that Maras was heavily involved in decorating an entire mall for Christmas and seeing to it that the Christmas programs went on without a hitch, she found time to bake 103 carrot cakes as personalized Christmas rememberances for 103 lucky friends.

Neither Maras or Babusek have the traditional 9 to 5 job. Maras spends many evenings and weekends at the mall spearheading all the special events that take place there such as the display of the miniature White House and in the summertime, the "Big Band" concerts, just to name a few of those events.

Babusek was the chairman of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce's Christmas program and was soley responsible for the building and management of a sports bar at St. Peter's "Footlights."

Her six children have all left home but she still has a dining room table full at the drop of a hat when the grown children visit.

One of Maras' favorite "easy" recipes is her own special Turkey Divan.

Take one can of golden mushroom soup, one cup of mayonnaise, two teaspoons of lemon juice, two packages of frozen asparagus spears(thawed), five one-fourth-inch slices of turkey breast, one-half cup of grated parmesian cheese and one three-ounce can of French-fried onion rings.

First combine soup, mayonaise and lemon juice. Place thawed asparagus in an eight by eight by two pan. Top the spears with turkey slices and pour the soup mixture over them. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 to 30 minutes and top with cheese and onions.

This is a delicious entree that will serve four hungry people.

One of her other specialties is Spinach Pudding, a light, quiche-like delicacy that even spinach-haters will love, and since it can be served hot or cold, it can be made early in the morning before leaving for work or the evening before.

The ingredients include, one package of frozen chopped spinch, four slightly beaten eggs, one cup of milk, one-fouth cup of onion flakes, one package sharp shredded cheddar cheese, salt, and pepper.

First thaw and drain the spinach and place in an eight by eight by two glass oven pan. Combine all the other ingredients and pour over spinach, mix. Bake the pudding in a 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes and wait 10 minutes before cutting.

Her friends and fellow employees claim that Maras can get 48 hours out of one day and these two recipes are just a sample of the many she uses to make her 12-hour days a little easier.

Babusek, who has been involved in her extremely busy career at the bank for over 16 years, most of the time her children were growing up, still finds herself turning out large meals because the kids bring husbands, children and friends when they drop in.

She claims to have found a maid in her crock pot which she often lets play chef while she is a work.

A favorite stand-by is her Hungarian Goulash, the ingredients of which are: two pounds of beef stew meat cut into one-inch cubes, one large sliced onion, one minced garlic clove, two tablespoons of Worcestershire Sauce, one-half cup catsup, one tablespoon of brown sugar, two teaspoons of salt and two teaspoons of paprika, one teaspoon of dry mustard, one cup of water, one-fourth cup of flour and one pint of sour cream.

Put meat in slow cooker set on low; cover with sliced onion. Combine garlic, catsup, Worcestshire, sugar, salt, paprike and mustard. Stir in water and pour on top of meat, leave mixture cooking on low for nine to 10 hours.

When you return home, put cooker on high and, after dissolving flour in a bit of cold water, stir into meat mixture and let cook on high until it thickens. Serve goulash to a least five hungry souls over noodles or rice, garnished with large dallops of sour cream.

Her quickly gourmet dish, good enough for those fine food fanciers, is Simon and Garfunkel Chicken.

After heating the oven to 400 degrees, make sure you have four split chicken breasts(eight pieces)pounded thin, eight slices of Mozzarella cheese, two sticks of butter, one-half cup cooking Sherry, garlic salt, pepper, parsley, Rosemary, sage, thyme, flour, eggs, and corn flake crumbs.

Put cheese on top of chicken, roll and fasten with a toothpick. Dredge each roll in melted butter, roll in flour, dip in beaten eggs and roll in the corn flake crumbs. Arrange in a nine by 13 baking dish.

Put two teaspoons of parsley, one-half teaspoon each of sage, Rosemary, thyme in melted butter, saving one-fourth cup, and bake for 45 minutes, basting intermittently.

Add Sherry to remaining melted butter and baste chicken with it, baking it for 20 more minutes. Serve on a bed of rice.

The third "superwoman" is your reporter who has been keeping a busy "news knows no amount of hours or special time" schedule for over eight years as editor of the Lake Villa Record, the Bi-State Reporter and Lakeland Newspapers' entertainment section.

Unlike the other two, I always found day to day cooking a boring but necessary task that had to be done with four children and a hungry husband at home. But I did, and still do, love to try new things for company.

With my husband and myself the only two that eat daily at our house, we both have learned to love those frozen gourmet dinners that come on disposable plastic trays.

But I do often make a terrific appetizer that has a melt-in-your-mouth crust versatile enough for a thousand and one fillings.

Take a stick of softened butter, a large package of softened cream cheese and blend with a fork. Add flour slowly and blend until soft dough forms, using dashes of water for cohesiveness.

In floured hands, take tablespoons of the dough, roll into a ball and flatten with the heal of your hand into a small circle. Put filling on top and fold over, using fork to seal edges of half shell.

Puncture holes in top of shells with fork and bake until slightly brown in a 350 degree oven.

Suggested fillings include: cooked hamburger in barbeque sauce with a dot of cheese; canned shrimp with a dash of catsup; peanut-butter with a piece of cooked bacon and canned crabmeat with a dot of Swiss cheese. Canned pie fruit turns these into little dessert tarts when topped with cinnamon and sugar.

Local Leaders Urge Caution, Predict Boom

For those who weren't caught in the flood, 1986 was a good, stable economic year, according to most area experts. Almost to a man, they believe that 1987 is going to be even better.

Randy Miles, president of the State Bank of Antioch said, "1987 looks very good. With the downward trend in interest rates, people are going to have to be very careful with the new tax laws, though."

The biggest concern among local economy watchers is the impact the new tax laws will have. There is no concensus as to what that impact will be. Most of the experts simply suggest caution as the byword for investors in the new year.

Ralph Zicco, president of both the Wauconda National Bank and the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce said that, "while the tax reform act won't have much affect on '86, a lot of people are going to rethink where their dollars are going in '87."

Taking a more pessimistic view was Dante Greco, president of New Century Bank in Mundelein. "The tax reform act was supposed to offer a tax decrease, but I see an opposite effect," he said. "People will find ways to work within the system, though."

Offering specific advice was Len Dam, a Fox Lake certified public accountant (CPA) and the chairman of the finance committee for the village of Fox Lake. Dam said he believes that the commodities market, after being beat up for four or five years, is going to make a comeback in 1987.

For people looking to invest, Dam suggested they "diversify into at least three types of markets. We are cautioning people to stay away from construction; there is a glut of construction in the speculative home market (homes that are built before they are sold.)"

Both political and financial leaders agreed that the Lakeland area saw the first signs of a boom in development. It shows no sign of slowing down in 1987.

In the Round Lake area, the 330-acre Brandel development, which will eventually have almost 1,200 units, was approved in Round Lake Beach. The project sparked controversy because much of it lies in rural Lake Villa Twp.

"It is a well-planned quality development," said Round Lake Beach Mayor Carl Schrimpf. "In the next year, we want to move toward becoming a bonafide city, with control of our own destiny."

Over in Round Lake Park, similar controversy was created when the board approved the 686-acre, 4,800-unit Saddlebrook Farms development. Situated entirely in Fremont Twp., the project would bring in a mobile home retirement community over a period of about 20 years. Many Fremont homeowners are concerned that the project would forever alter the pastoral atmosphere of the township.

Fremont is, perhaps, particularly of concern to open space advocates as its neighbor to the east, Mundelein, also has ambitious growth plans. Greco of New Century Bank predicted that Mundelein would become a "miniature Schaumburg." He predicted that business development will build up on the Rte. 60 corridor on the south end of the village and that Mundelein will continue to see vigorous residential and business development.

In Gurnee, Mayor Dick Welton noted that 150 single-family house permits were taken out in 1986 and retail development continued apace. Gurnee's Pembrook residential project is looking for retail space and a hotel is planned for Washington St. and Rte. 21.

Vern Paddock, president of the First National Bank of Gurnee believes that business and residential development will continue to play a strong role in Gurnee's future. "The growth potential, based on the last five years, is still there as long as the economy stays strong overall," he said.

Lake Villa Twp. has become a hot spot of development as well. Mayor Joyce Frayer and the village board brought in a development that nearly borders the Brandel development in Round Lake Beach. It is being built by the same developers. In Lindenhurst, single-family homes are still booming, with Modern Homebuilders alone planning almost 150 units.

Some residents of unincorporated Lake Villa Twp. are trying to slow down the boom through the attempted incorporation of almost all unincorporated areas in Lake Villa Twp. plus some areas of Avon, Grant and Antioch Twps. If successful, the new village would be called Liberty Lakes and would effectively stop neighboring villages from annexing more land.

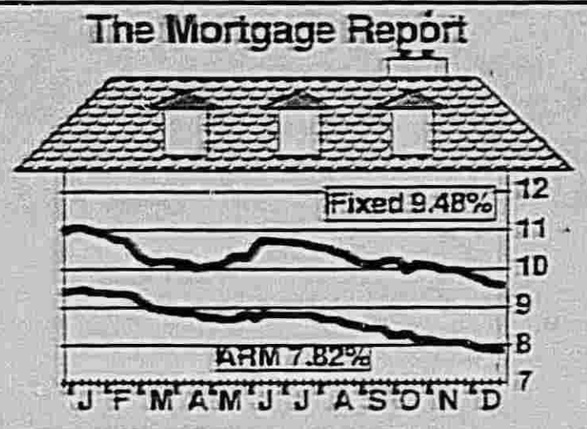

In Fox Lake, major rehabilitation of the existing business area, plus a commercial and residential strip at Rtes. 12 and 134 are planned. Fox Lake has embarked on a vigorous plan of commercial and retail development that will carry its village boundaries into McHenry County and Antioch Twp. It annexed the Thelen property, up to where the sand and gravel pits are, in the fall. That is part of a long-range plan to bring light industrial development into the village as well as residential and commercial.

There may yet be obstacles to the ambitious growth plans of local communities, though. Besides the Liberty Lakes effort, some groups h taken a cue from M Graham's successful ef to create an open sp district in Libertyville T Such a district offers anot means for rural residents block development a preserve open spa Fremont Twp. Sup. Geo Bell is planning the sa sort of referendum to try control growth in township.

For most it has been good year, but the bat lines between growth a vocates and open spa advocates appear to growing sharper. Even t rosiest open-space advocat though, does not expect see any decline i development in the Lakelan area in 1987.

AARP Urges Tax Credit

Obtaining tax credits for those who provide in-home care of the elderly and initiating "lifeline" telephone service are among the priorities agreed to by legislative representatives for the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) in Illinois.

AARP's Illinois State Legislative Committee (SLC) decided on these and other legislative priorities at an organizational meeting held in preparation for the 1987 session of the Illinois state legislature.

SLC Chairman Robert Sell of Chicago, said the committee will seek legislation which would assist families in their efforts to keep chronically ill elderly relatives at home.

"Most families want to provide the necessary care at home," said Sell. "But over time, the financial and emotional resources are exhausted and the only alternative is institutionalization. Allowing a tax credit to families caring for elderly relatives would help ease the financial burden."

The Illinois SLC is also urging the implementation of lifeline telephone service for low-income individuals. "A telephone is no longer a luxury," said Sell, "it's essential, especially for an elderly person living alone." Lifeline service would allow a minimum number of local calls for a flat monthly rate; any calls exceeding the minimum would be billed at the per call rate.

Among the organization's other priorities for the coming legislative session will be special emphasis on the needs of older women. Many older women live alone and oftentimes in poverty, the legislative efforts will focus on maintaining economic security, health care, adequate housing and long-term care needs.

Many Retirees Choose To Retire From The Sun Belt

The image has been stereotyped. There's the 65th birthday party; the office luncheon and presentation of a gold watch; fond farewells by business associates followed by goodbyes to the old house, neighbors and family members; and the happy couple steps into their car or boards a plane to spend their golden retirement years in some faraway city in the Sun Belt.

But according to one retirement living expert, the stereotype no longer fits today's active seniors.

"We are experiencing a reversal of that once-prevalent practice," says Manny S. Kramer, president of ActiveLife Retirement Communities, Inc. "More and more, these active seniors are telling us that they are moving back to be near friends and family—to the parts of the country where they spend most of their adult life and where they feel most at home."

He said that about 30 percent of current inquiries are from retirees who had moved away and now want to return. As recently as 1984, the number was only 20 percent, he said.

"For some, the return is prompted by a tragedy in thier lives—the death of a spouse or an illness," said Kramer, whose firm develops and operates retirement communities promoting independent living in the Chicago area and in the Twin Cities. "But many others are telling us that starting life anew in unfamiliar surroundings far from their friends and families just left too much to be desired. They say they just want to 'come home.'"

In fact, a study by the Real Estate Research Corp. found that 80 to 90 percent of seniors travel fewer than 10 miles from their current homes when choosing a rental retirement environment.

Kramer said that the reverse trend is most prevalent among seniors who retired to warmer climates when they were in their late 50s and early 60s, and who now are in their early 70s and miss what they left behind.

He said that regardles of whether they moved away and are now returning, or are just getting their first taste of retirement, today's seniors all look for the same things: security, financial freedom, companinship and an independent lifestyle.

"Today's world is different," he said. "You can't just assume that people, just because they turn 65 or 70, totally forget everything they've known in their past life, and all their interests go out the window. Today, people are living longer and seniors are much more active and want to enjoy their retirement years," he added.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, there are more than 28.5 million American adults over 65 years of age. For many senior citizens, the old images of retirement or nursing homes are not how they choose to spend their retirement years.

"Many of the seniors we meet daily say they've decided to leave their single family homes because they are either too busy pursuing outside interests and hobbies or because it has become too difficult to manage and run a household," says Gail Magoon, director of marketing of Hawthorn Lakes retirement village in Vernon Hills. "It's extremely difficult for older adults to admit they cannot take care of the homes they lived in most of their adult lives."

Many of them realize the need to adjust their lifestyles, she said, but they are not ready to turn their lives over to someone else to manage as they would in a continuous care or nursing home environment.

"Some people in nursing homes probably don't belong there," explained Kramer. "Only four or five percent of Americans over 65 years of age require the services and continuous care of a nursing home. Just because they can't keep up with the daily household chores, or they're lonely, are not reasons to enter a nursing home."

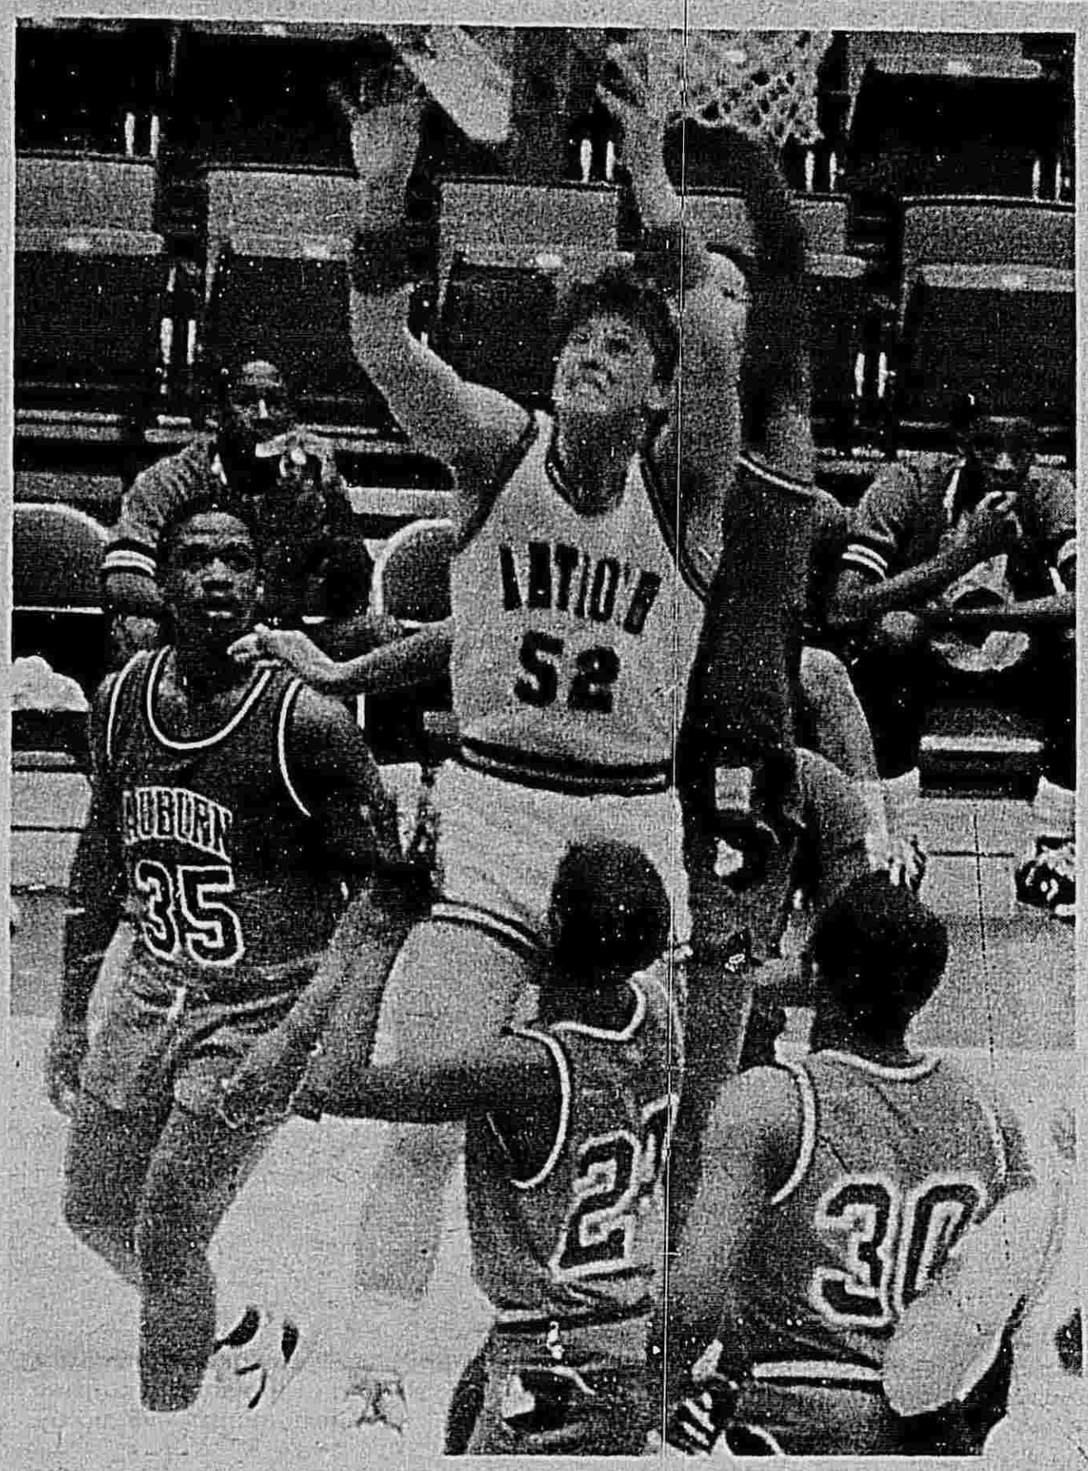

The decision to choose a retirement environment can be traumatic for senior citizens and their families.

"Many of the senior adult chidlren are very concerned with helping their parents find a retirement community that provides companionship, balanced meals, housekeeping, access to health care if necessary and financial freedom," says Magoon. "A lot of adult children feel guilty that their parents are not moving in with them, but their parents confide in us that they would rather be on their own than burden their family for compnaionship, shopping trips and other daily acitivities."

A Special Tournament Well Worth Repeating

From Rockford to Rich South, area high school basketball teams competed in holiday tournaments last week. They traveled far a wide, with trophies and mid-season momentum at stake.

There were your exciting games, blowouts and even a no-show in the group of contests.

While high school stars were competing for the spotlight, a very unique tourney was happening at Round Lake Senior High School.

The Knights of Columbus Chapter No. 8214 sponsored a junior high basketball tournament - the first annual Mid-Season Lake County Championships. Some 13 junior highs schools, all private schools, participated in the three day event spaced out over two weeks.

And just 11 weeks ago, the event was only an idea.

But through the efforts of many area residents - headed by tourney director Norman Kleber- the tourney became a reality.

Oh, yes, there were your blowouts and close calls that happen any time 13 basketball teams get together of varying talents. But this meet was special because:

-no fee was charged to area schools.

-cheerleaders were offered their own competition.

-no admission fee was charged to fans.

-and even the referees got something - a trophy and a word of thanks instead of a paycheck slipped to them by some school official.

"There are no losers in this tournament," Kleber said.

Some 278 children participated in the event and perhaps the most outstanding aspect was its emphasis on school spirit.

Walking into the lobby of RLSHS, a table full of trophies was hard not to see. But the biggest trophy was not for first place. The biggest trophy, won by St. Johns, was the Norbert "Stretch' Purol Pride And School Spirit award.

Each team was comprised of sixth, seventh and eigth graders and even if it was blown out by 40 points in the first round it received a trophy, something to be placed on a prominent spot in the den at home.

OVERTIME

By Steve Peterson

All cheerleading teams also received trophies. The cheerleading competition was held in during the "Final Four" Sunday. The teams competed in a myriad of ways for three and one-half entertaining minutes.

Santa Maria Del Pololo of Mundelein took home top honors and the school's smallest cheerleader, Kelly Saam, earned a special Miss Personality award.

Fans were also part of the trophy-winning spree. St. Patricks of Wadsworth and St. Peters of Antioch both took home fans' trophies for the support of their individual teams.

Judges were hard-pressed to decide upon a winner in the cheerleading and fans' support awards, so there was a unique atmosphere when St. Patricks played St. Joseph of Libertyille for the championship game.

Fans were actually pulling for both teams in an effort to win the school spirit award.

Hopefully, when these players reach high school level and some coach, worried about job security, yells at them for being in the wrong place on the 2-3 zone, or when some cheerleading advisor scolds a cheerleader for slipping on the pyramid, the youngsters will remember those few days at Round Lake Senior High School when winning took second to participating.

It is a tournament definitely worth repeating in 1987.

WTHS Takes Third, Grant Fifth At DeKalb Tournament

Long bus rides to DeKalb proved to be worthwhile for Warren and Grant's basketball teams.

Both squads came home with hardware for the tournament, the Blue Devils for third place and the Bulldogs for fifth.

And both teams are well over .500 heading into a week-long break with Grant at 10-2 and Warren at 8-4.

"It's just a matter of concentrating for 32 minutes. We've had some easy wins, some close wins and some tough losses, but we know we're capable," Grant coach Tom Maple said.

The tourney featured ups and downs for both: Grant won a game in which it was shutout for a quarter while Warren nearly pulled out a contest in which it trailed by 20 points.

Grant opened the tourney with a win over Batavia before losing a close battle to Thorton Fractional North. The Bulldogs then beat Montini and Rockford West for the fifth-place trophy.

Warren opened with a romp over Wheaton North, then edged Elgin Larkin. A second-half rally was not enough for Warren against St. Charles in a brutally physical game. The Blue Devils then bounced back to beat Thornton Fractional North for third place.

Against Batavia, Grant used a 25-5 second-quarter spree to put the game into the "W" column. The Bulldogs did not let up in the third quarter, outscoring Batavia a resounding 19-2 en route to a 76-41 romp.

Don Kiesgan had 21 points for the winners while Ron Richford had 19 and Mike Kazlausky 12.

In the Thorton Fractional North game, TFN's Mike Jurkovic scored the winning basket with less than seven seconds left as Grant lost 63-61. Grant led after one quarter, but TFN dominated in the second and third quarters.

Kiesgan had 18 and Jeff Bieniacz 12 to lead the way.

Grant looked like it was off to a good start when it led Montini 18-5 after one quarter. But then the Bulldogs were shutout for the second quarter and Montini trimmed the lead to just one, 18-17.

"All of them were good shots, too," Maple said.

But the 0-for-11 quarter was forgetten at by the start of the second half as Grant increased its margin to 13 points. Montini closed the gap to five in the fourth period, but Grant made six free throws to post a 46-39 win.

"Free throws and defense were about the only thing we did decent," Maple said. Grant was 16-for-19 from the free-throw line.

Richford more than led the way for Grant in the fifth place game against Rockford West.

Richford, a 6'1" forward, scored 22 points, including eight in the fourth quarter, as Grant pulled out a 56-52 win.

Kiesgan had 12 and Mike MacDonald 11.

Warren thumped Wheaton North 50-32 and nipped Elgin Larkin 45-43 in its first two contests.

Then the Blue Devils, which normally have height advantage on most opponents, found themselves looking up at St. Charles.

The Saints used their heighth and a pressing defense to build a 42-22 lead midway through the third quarter.

Warren out not quit, though. A run led by Matt Lingenfelser, Derek Shelton and Dave Nolan brought Warren to within shooting range at 47-35 after three quarters.

Six Warren free throws brought the 'Devils to within five at 56-51 with 1:51 remaining. Montini answered, though, making seven-of-nine from the line for a 63-55 win.

Brian Jarrell had 20 in the losing effort while Shelton had 11 and Lingenfelser 10 points.

Warren edged TFN 53-51 in the third-place game.

Carmel Lone Hoops Squad Without Much Vacation

Professional hockey, basketball and baseball all have mid-season breaks, so why can't your favorite high school basketball team?

Nine of the 10 Lakeland area teams do have a week off and then some before starting conference action again Jan. 9. With most holiday tournaments ended Dec. 27, that means 12 days between games.

The lone exception to the rule is Carmel. Coach Frank Belmont's team has anything but time to rest its bruised bodies - the Corsairs host St. Joseph Jan. 6.

The Corsairs started the Kankakee tournament with a 52-51 heartbreaker to Dunbar. That put the Corsairs into the consolation bracket.

For nine others, it appears that personal perference dictates more than a team's record. A sampling:

Mundelein (3-9) coach Dennis Kessel: "We need some time to get away from basketball."

Grayslake (4-6) coach Greg Groth: "We're going to practice twice on Saturday (Jan. 3). That seemed to work well in the pre-season for us. You can never stop working."

Round Lake (7-5) coach Bob Ward: "This is the time of year when you can get a lot of practices in."

Antioch (2-10) coach Don Zeeman: "We'll take a few days off. We have a whole week off before our next conference game and we want the kids to approach it that they are getting better."

Trophies, But Different Outlooks For Two Teams

Both Mundelein and Round Lake came home from the Northern Illinois Classic in Hamshire with trophies.

Mundelein's was for fourth while Round Lake's earned one for fifth, yet it was the Panthers who came away happier about their showing.

"I feel real positive. The most positive thing was we played better and better every game. We showed improvement," Round Lake coach Bob Ward said.

"We're very up and down. We have to work hard at everything we get," Mundelein coach Dennis Kessel said.

The 3-1 tournament left Round Lake with a 7-5 record before this week's mid-season break. The Mustangs, after 2-2 in the meet, are 3-9 overall. Both teams are off until Jan. 9. Johnsburg, the area's third entry, lost its first two games.

The Panthers and the Mustangs both had members named to the all-tourney squad - Jim Bills for Round Lake and J. T. Mathwig for Mundelein.

Mundelein opened the tournament by edging Genoa-Kingston 67-61. What proved to be the difference for the Mustangs was free throws, as Mundelein broke out of its season-long slump to make 23-for-28. Mundelein took charge in the second half, outscoring the Cogs 38-26 in the final 18 minutes.

Mathwig led the Mustangs with 22 points to lead the attack. Jeff Geary had 12, Brian Kristofferson 11 and Tyrone Childs had 10.

The Mustangs then pulled off an upset as they ousted

Jim Bills

J. T. Mathwig

Geneva from the winners bracket 54-41.

Mathwig and Geary scored 15 points to lead Mundelein in the contest. Mundelein outscored Geneva 18-10 in the final quarter.

The Mustangs then found themselves over their heads against Dundee-Crown and Lake Zurich, losing to both teams by more than 20 points.

Against Dundee-Crown, Mundelein trailed 16-10 after the first quarter, 28-21 at halftime and 43-33 after three. The Chargers then blew the game open, outscoring the Mustangs 22-11 in the final eight minutes.

Mundlein looked like it was in good shape when the Mustangs got into the bonus situation in the first quarter against Lake Zurich.

Mundelein, though, failed to convert the opportunities, missing three free-throws in the first quarter. Five turnovers and a missed shot on the team's first six possessions did not help either.

At end of the first quarter, Lake Zurich led 14-7 and doubled that in the second, leading 32-14 at halftime en route to a 79-47 romp.

"Missing the free throws in the first quarter put us in a hole we could not get out of. We're a type of team which has to stay with another team early," Kessel said.

Mathwig had 13 and Joe Wiener 12 against the Bears.

Round Lake started the tourney with a narrow 59-54 escape over Malta.

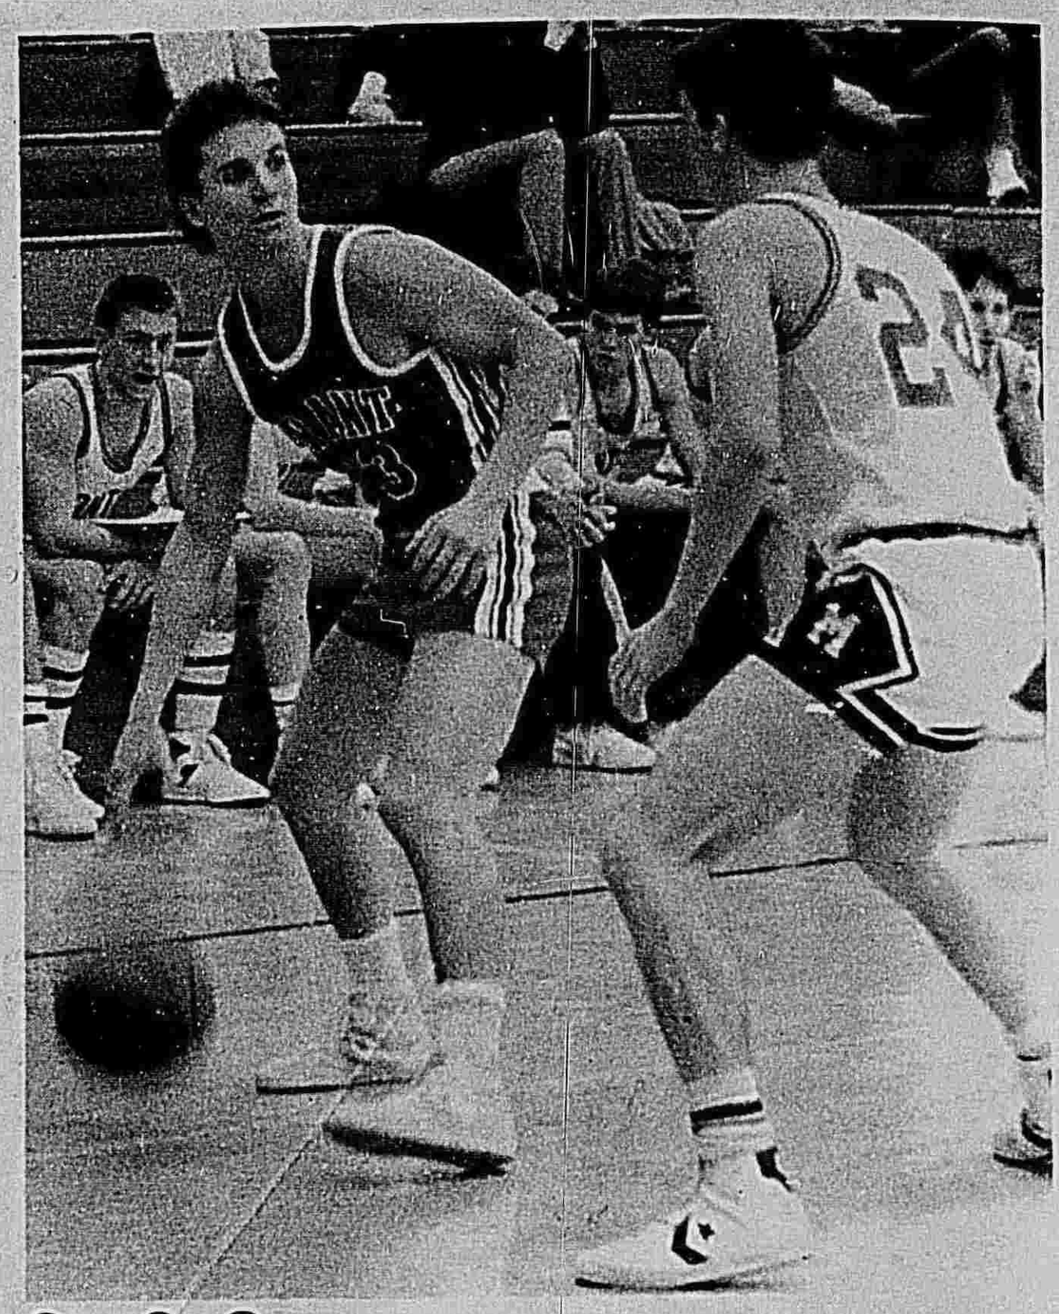

The Panthers then faced Lake Zurich, a team which had defeated them 69-50 earlier in the year.

This time Round Lake made it close, losing just 46-44. Bills led the way with 11 for Round Lake.

"We had much better shot selection and we had excellent team play on offense," Ward said.

The Panthers bounced back to beat Burlington Central and Geneva.

Against Burlington, the Panthers overcame early leads by the Rockets to tie the game 42-42 going into the fourth quarter. Round Lake then won the decising session 15-9 to post the win. Bills led with 23 points on nine field goals and five free throws.

Grayslake Hopes For End To 5-Game Loss Streak

For Grayslake's boys basketball team, the holidays were anything but joyus.

The Rams are licking their wounds after two more losses at the Rich South tournament which dropped their record to below .500 at 4-6 overall. This for a team which started the 1986-87 season with three wins at the Johnsburg Thanksgiving tourney.

"We're in a Catch 22 situation. We're stuck in the middle. We can't win unless we have confidence but we can't find confidence unless we win," Grayslake coach Greg Groth said.

A 63-42 defeat at the hands of Bloom and a 52-41 loss to Shepherd gave Grayslake a five-game losing streak.

Grayslake is off until Jan. 9 but it does not look like things will get much easier. The Rams host Northwest Suburban Conference leader Grant that night.

Against Shepherd, Groth started new faces in the lineup in an effort to shake things up.

But Grayslake fell into its trap of a slow start and having to play catch-up the rest of the way. Shepherd led 14-8 after one quarter and 27-17 at halftime.

"We were down 9-2 in the first quarter again. They came out and really were hot," Groth said.

Grayslake trimmed the lead to 37-31 after three and came to within four at the outset of the fourth quarter.

Grayslake was not helpd by 17-for-60 shooting from the floor.

Butch Lanor led Grayslake with 12 points while Andrew Flood had 11 and Ray Magiera 10.

In the tourney opener, Grayslake played tough against Bloom in the second half, but that was not enough to overcome a first-half deficit.

Magiera had 14 points for the Rams while Flood had 10.

Sequoits Hope New Year Brings More Victories

Antioch basketball coach Don Zeeman came into the Rockford Christmas tournament hoping to see some improvement from his squad which lost eight of its first nine games.

And as far as he is concerned, the Sequoits showed enough improvement that 1987 can be a year to look forward to.

"We made improvement in each of the three games and that was our objective going in," Zeman said.

The Sequoits started the tournament by being trounced by a bigger, quicker Rockford Auburn team 68-50. Antioch bounced beak to nip Streamwood 54-51 before losing a close contest to Rockford West 60-57. Antioch, now 2-9 overall, is off until Jan. 9 when it resumes North Suburban Conference action against Fenton.

In both of Antioch's losses, the opponents' strong inside game was a dominating factor.

Against Auburn, Antioch fell behind 22-13 afte eight minutes and although the Sequoits played tough for the second and third quarters, the deficit was too much to overcome.

Tom Wells led Antioch with 23 points while Wade Kilman had 12.

Antioch fell behind again against Streamwood early but this time rallies in the second and third quarter did the trick. After falling behind 18-17 at the outset, Antioch won the second period 11-8 and the third 13-11.

"In the second and third quarters we played real good defense and maintained consistently on offense," Zeeman said.

The Sequoits also cut down on their turnovers, committing just seven for the game.

Kilman and David Wick proved scoring from close range for Antioch, tallying 17 and eight points each. Wells contributed 14 from his guard position.

Antioch tried to rally in the fourth quarter against Rockford West but came up three points short.

"We were down by 10 points for most of the fourth quarter but when we got close they just went inside," Zeeman said.

Wauconda Falls At Tourney

Wauconda's boys basketball team could use a few days off.

The Bulldogs lost two games at the Marengo Holiday Tournament last week and don't play again until Jan. 9.

Coach Chuck Neary's team fell to Huntley 97-56 in the opener and then lost to Richmond-Burton by a closer 56-50 count. Wauconda is now 1-8 overall.

Against Huntley, a team which would eventually finish in second in the tourney, Wauconda trailed 24-11 after eight minutes. The Bulldogs fought even with the Redskins, 22-22 in the second quarter but lost the third quarter by a 31-14 count and the fourth 20-9.

Pat Schaller scored 23 for Wauconda.

Things started on a more positive note in the second game of the tournament against Richmond. Wauconda tied the Rockets 13-13 after eight minutes and trailed just 27-23 at halftime.

Richmond, though, began to pull away in the third quarter.

Wauconda rallied to win the fourth period 15-12 but that was not enough.

Mark Sutherland had 18 and Schaller 14 for the Bulldogs.

Swopes, Coleman Begin Careers On Bright Note

Two North Chicago Community High School graduates are faring well in their collegiate athletic careers.

At the University of Wisconsin, Eau Claire, Cletis Swopes finished in third place in the St. Cloud Invitational in the 150 pound division. He went 3-2 for the tourney, winning his first two matches by scores of 10-4 and 5-4 before losing 7-2. In the fourth match, Swopes won 6-1 and lost his final match of the meet. Swopes has a 13-3-1 record, was chosen by coach Don Parker as the wrestler-of-the-week.

As of the holiday break, the wrestlers are 3-4 in dual meets, 10-13 overall.

At Illinois State University, basketball player Jarod Coleman came off the bench to give the Redbirds had 17 points and 15 rebounds at the Music City Tournament in Nashville.

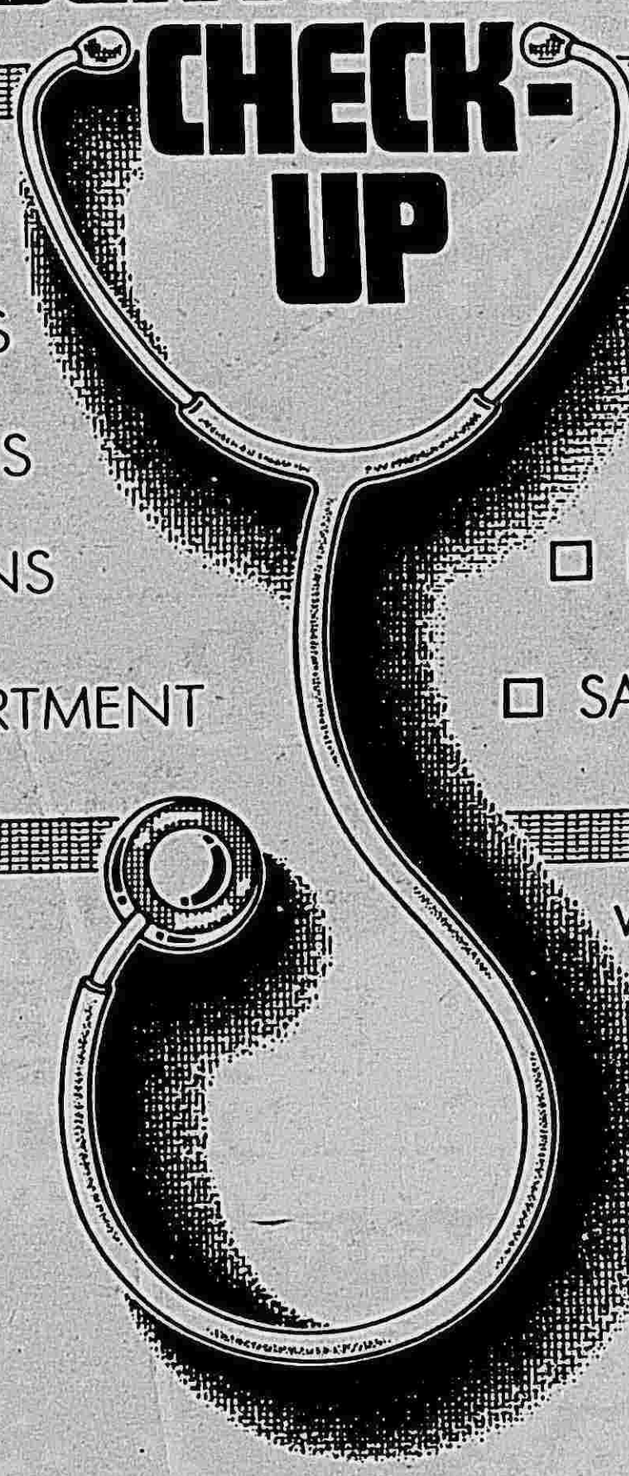

Coleman, playing in six ISU games, has made 10 of 23 field goal tries and is six-of-eight from the free throw line. He is averaging 3.7 points a game.

Coach Bob Donewald's team, 4-3 overall, beat Tenessee Tech after losing to Kansas State in overtime in Nashville.

While playing for coach Lester Long last year at NCCHS, Coleman averaged 14.8 points a game and garnered 11.4 rebounds a contest for the Warhawks. He earned honorable mention all-state honors at North Chicago.

Free Video Shows How To Save Money On Mortgages

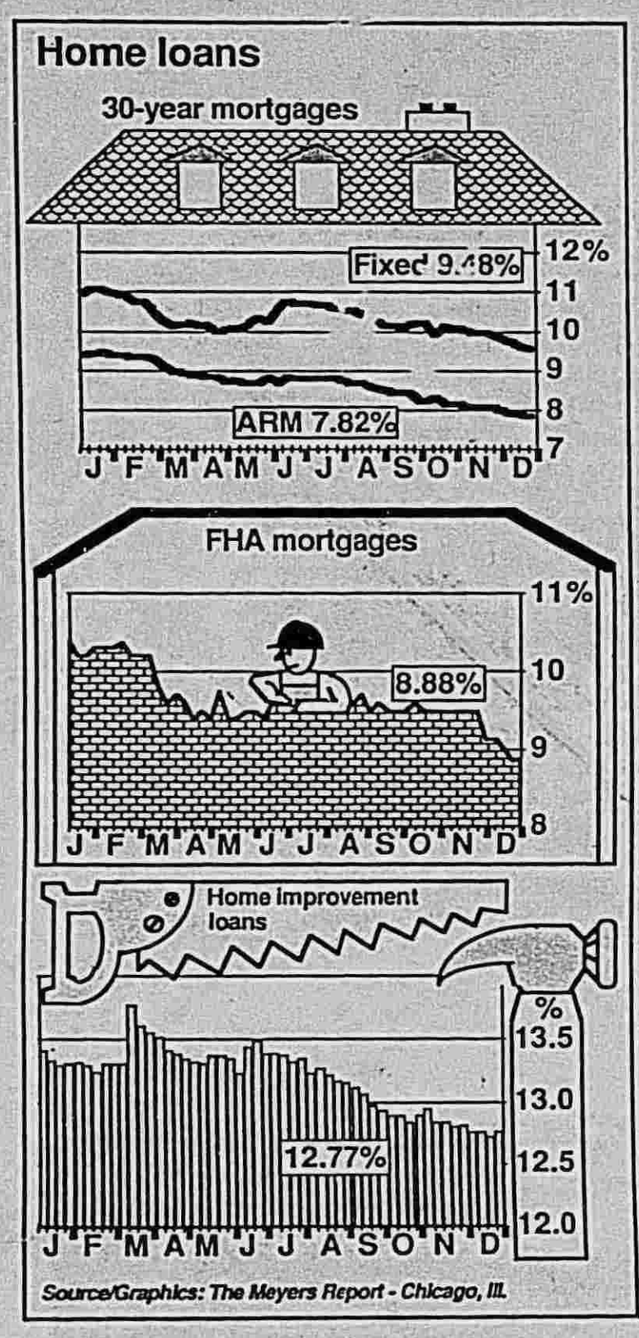

A special new video tape program entitled "The Key To The Right Mortgage" is now available for overnight viewing from The First National Bank of Waukegan's Libertyville office at 251 Peterson Rd.

The program covers many of the mortgage choices available to homebuyers today, provides an idea of what to expect in the way of closing costs and points, and presents an idea of what to expect when applying for a loan.

Mark J. Peteler, real estate loan officer at the bank, explained that few home purchasers have a very good idea of what is involved in financing a home today. "Unless someone is actually in the process of financing a home, there is not much need to pay close attention to changes in mortgages. Everything has changed so much in recent years that even people who financed just a few years ago are unaware of what is possible now. Understanding some of these changes has the potential to save people a good deal of money."

The fast-paced 37-minute program was specifically developed for viewing at home. There is no charge or obligation.

Interested persons may borrow a copy in either VHS or Beta format through the Real Estate Loan Dept. at The First National Bank of Waukegan's Libertyville office. For additional information, contact Mr. Peteler at (312) 367-1850.

Three Tips For Wise Money Management

If you have dollars to be invested, there are any number of investment counselors, financial planners, insurance salesmen, bankers, investment brokers, etc., who will be willing to find a vehicle for you. The main question for you to ask is, can they manage it wisely? We would like to suggest the following steps in preparing a plan:

First, find a capable advisor. This should be someone with whom you are comfortable, with whom you can communicate well and who you feel is both ethical and competent.

Second, design a plan. This should be done with your advisor's assistance, and with your specific goals and objectives clearly defined.

Third, diversify your investments: in other words don't put all your eggs into one basket. If your financial advisor cannot offer you more than one type of investment, shop around for someone who can. Diversification represents safety and it is very important.

Finally, be ready to adapt your plan to take advantage of a changing economy. This is most critical to the continued success of your investment. Many financial products have little flexibility. The key to continuing success in your plan is the ability and willingness of your advisor to continually advise you of necessary changes and to implement them with your permission. For further information on financial plans, write to Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 2211 York Rd., Suite 100, Oak Brook, IL 60521.

Zero Coupon Bonds Offer Novel Way To Help Others

For those in high tax brackets, we offer this unique method of contributing to your favorite charity, receiving an 80 percent tax write-off (at least in 1986) and getting your money back by using Zero Coupon Municipal Bonds.

Let's use the example of Big Brothers, a favorite not-for-profit organization. We'll use several assumptions: A) You are in a 50 percent tax bracket; B) you are contributing $10,000; C) Big Brothers is going to give you two Zero Coupon Municipal Bonds maturing in 2006 in return for your contribution; D) the Municipal Bonds cost $1,000 each.

Everyone now wins! Big Brothers receives an $8,000 net contribution ($10,000, with $2,000 going for the Bonds.) The donor gets an $8,000 write-off which saves him $4,000 in taxes, and finally, the donor receives his $10,000 back tax-free.

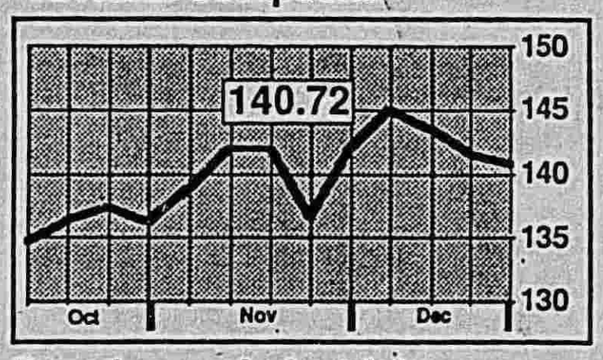

While the $10,000 does not come back for a 20-year period, one can use that Bond as a retirement fund or to pay for a daughter's wedding or to help one's child begin a business. For a variation, one could use U.S. Government Treasury Zeroes and place them in a trust for a granchild's education fund. The federal taxes on the Treasury Bond would accrue to the child and lessen the tax bite.

Before investing, consult your tax advisor, but for further information you may contact Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 2211 York Rd., Suite 100, Oak Brook, IL 60521.

Ginnie Maes Are Sound Investment

A Ginnie Mae (Government National Mortgage Assn. GNMA) is a security which represents a mortgage loan made by the Federal Housing Association (FHA), or Veterans' Adminstration (VA) to residential home buyers. These loans are then packaged and sold to investors. Since they historically pay a higher rate of interest than other U.S. government securities, they have been a very popular form of investment. There are two basic ways in which Ginnie Mae investments may be made:

First, one can buy them directly, with an initial outlay of between $25,000-$100,000. The buyer of the Ginnie Mae then, in many ways functions as noteholder of the mortgage loan, although the U.S. government guarantees both the principal and interest of the security.

The second method in which many people invest in Ginnie Maes is through the purchase of shares in a mutual fund consisting of these superb U.S. government bonds and may contain other U.S. government securities. Both vehicles result in monthly income checks, while the direct route also includes a return of capital.

While Ginnie Maes are one of the most popular investments, they hold some risk. However, the rewards of a currently higher rate than CDs or money markets, and the direct backing of the U.S. government, often outweigh the risks.

Some Homeowner Can Save By Refinancing

With rates on home mortgages down sharply from previous highs, you may well consider refinancing your mortgage.

Refinancing is a major decision. While you may stand to save a substantial amount of money by obtaining a new mortgage at a lower rate, other factors should also be considered, such as upfront charges and after-tax consequences.

What are the up-front charges involved in refinancing a home mortgage?

The major cost will be the "points"–a percentage of the total mortgage that the lender charges as a fee for financing the mortgage. It is normally paid at the "closing" and the amount varies from lender to lender. For example, one lender may offer a 10 and one-eighth percent rate and charge only one-and-a-half points; another could offer a lower rate of nine and seven-eights percent but a higher two-and-a-half point fee; and, while you may be able to obtain a loan at nine and five-eighths percent interest, the upfront cost could be as high as three-and-a-half points.

The "points" decision will usually depend upon the period of time you expect to own the home. If you are planning to sell the home in the near future, high points/low rate options are less attractive.

Earlier this year, the IRS ruled that points paid on the refinancing of a residential mortgage cannot be fully deducted in the year of refinancing. Now, the point deduction must be spread out over the life of the loan.

In addition, there are other costs associated with refinancing that are generally not deductible. For example, title insurance alone can easily run $1,000 or more. Appraisal, legal, mortgage recording, reconveyance, and other miscellaneous charges can quickly swell the total refinancing costs (including mortgage points) up to the four to six percent range. These immediate costs must be balanced against the future value of lower mortgage payments.

What are the after-tax consequences of a reduced mortgage payment?

There are several dynamics at work here. As the interest rate decreases, the total annual interest expense goes down, while the principal payment may actually rise compared to previous totals. However, the lower the interest payment, the lower the tax deduction. This will affect the after-tax value of the decrease in monthly payment.

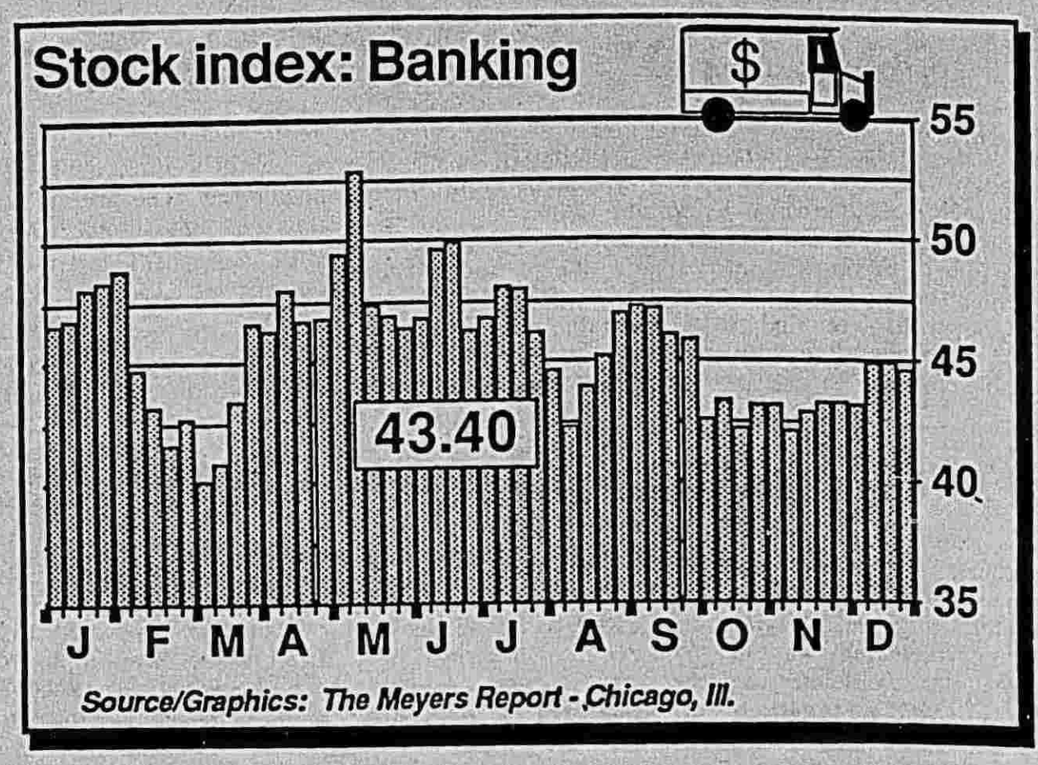

For example, an existing 30-year loan for $200,000 carries a 12 percent rate. A new loan is available at 10 percent, but the upfront costs are $10,000. Of the amount, $6,000 is amortized, or spread out over the life of the loan ($200 per year over 30 years). The potential savings in this case, based on the second year after refinancing, are outlined below:

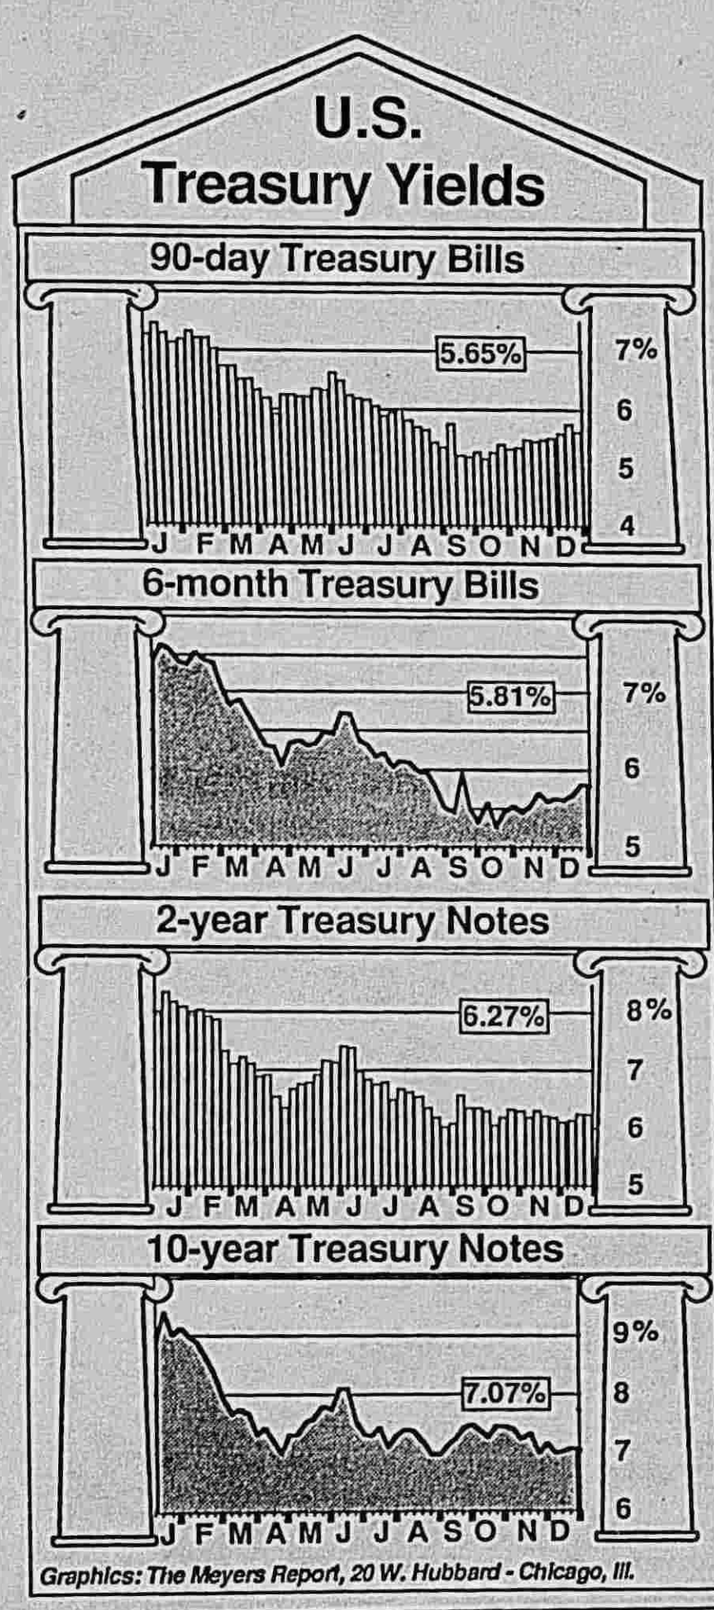

Decrease in annual interest expense is $3,957.

Subtract increase in annual principal reduction, $404, for net annual payment reduction of $3,553.

Stable Economy In '87 Will Be Good Tidings

by GARY S. MEYERS and ROBERT E. STENBECK

The Meyers Report is bullish on America in 1987. If you had a good 1986, chances are that '87 will be the same or even better. If 1986 was a financial downer for you, there's hope in the new year.

The U.S. economy will grow moderately, prices on all consumer goods will remain stable, interest rates will stay low, and recession-torn Texas and other oil-patch areas will begin their recovery.

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT (GNP)

The GNP, the broadest measure of our economy, will grow slowly during the first quarter of 1987 (0.8 percent) and then perk up sharply later in the year (3.5 percent in the fourth quarter).

PERSONAL INCOME

Most Americans will see pay hikes in the 3.5 percent range. While the raises are not huge, they will be significantly higher than inflation, further increasing consumer buying power.

INFLATION

Expect to see the Consumer Price Index rise a slight 1.85 percent in 1987. Prices on the raw materials used to produce consumer goods will remain stable, and some may even decline.

OIL

There will be a small jump in the price of gasoline and home heating oil. U.S. demand and efforts by OPEC will probably force the price of crude oil to $15 to $18 a barrel, up from the $13 and lower levels of only a month ago.

But OPEC doesn't have the power to force prices above the $18 or $20 range, because higher prices will allow competitors in the U.S. and elsewhere to reopen closed oil wells and use other energy sources–forcing oil prices back down.

INTEREST RATES

During 1986, interest rates declined by 1.5 to two percentage points everywhere. In 1987, interest rates should decline by yet another 0.5 to one percentage points during the first half of the year and then return to present levels by December.

Look for the Federal Reserve, the nation's central banker, to lower the discount rate early in the year. The discount rate, currently 5.5 percent, is what the federal government charges when banks borrow money from Uncle Sam.

By June 30, look for yields on 90-day and six-month Treasury bills to fall to 4.85 percent and 5.25 percent, respectively. By Dec. 31, 1987, look for yields to bounce back up to 5.10 percent and 5.40 percent.

The 30-year Treasury bond yield should fall to 6.88 percent by June 30 and then rise to 6.95 percent by year's end.

The prime rate, the rate that large banks charge to smaller banks who borrow, will decline to seven percent from 7.5 percent in 1987, whether or not the discount rate is cut.

MORTGAGE INTEREST RATES

The average 30-year fixed-rate mortgage will fall to 8.88 percent in January, setting off another national refinancing craze. This will bury mortgage lenders and drive rates back up to present levels by mid-March or April.

Watch for 15-year fixed mortgages with interest rates below eight percent.

SAVINGS RATES

Look out for your passbook savings account. Banks everywhere will begin to quietly cut these rates to less than five percent.

The Meyers Report recommends that consumers keep their savings short-term, in money market accounts or CDs of one year or less. Longer-term CDs will leave you stuck when rates rise.

INVESTMENTS

Stocks will do well, but bonds will not. Precious metals will remain volatile and could go lower.

A stronger economy, continued low interest rates and low inflation should increase corporate profits and stock values. The hot picks should be energy, banking and high-tech stocks.

The Dow Jones industrial average should hit 2000 by March and go as high as 2200 by September, before retreating again near year's end.

Corporate bonds are not the place to have your money in 1987. While bonds may show an improvement initially, as interest rates decline, bonds will be flat, at best, for 1987. If rates go up, bond holdings could become deadly.

Gold could do anything. With low inflation and a stable economy, the price of gold could fall to $350 per troy ounce or lower.

HOME BUYING OR SELLING

This year is the year to do it. Lower mortgage rates will result in a strong housing market. An added incentive will be the new tax law, which makes the American home the only true remaining tax shelter.

Housing starts in 1987 should be approximately 1.8 million, varying between 1.55 million (annualized) and 1.95 million (annualized) from month to month.

UNEMPLOYMENT

While the economy will improve, the unemployment rate will decline only slightly, as American corporations increase automation and pare down their middle management.

First-quarter civilian unemployment should be 6.9 percent. Unemployment for the year should be 6.7 percent, with monthly fluctuations between 6.6 percent and 7.1 percent.

The confidence of those we serve is the foundation of our progress.

To our friends old and new, we express our sincere thanks with season's greetings and best wishes for success in the coming year.

CD's Offer Liquidity, Diversity

CDs, or Certificates of Deposit, are investments which fall into the fixed income category of investing. These CDs represent a deposit with a bank or savings and loan which bear interest during the deposit term. The rate of return will vary with the term of the deposit.

Most depositors assume that all CDs are FSLIC or FDIC insured. While this is often true, it is important to check as some deposits in certain states may be backed by a state agency.

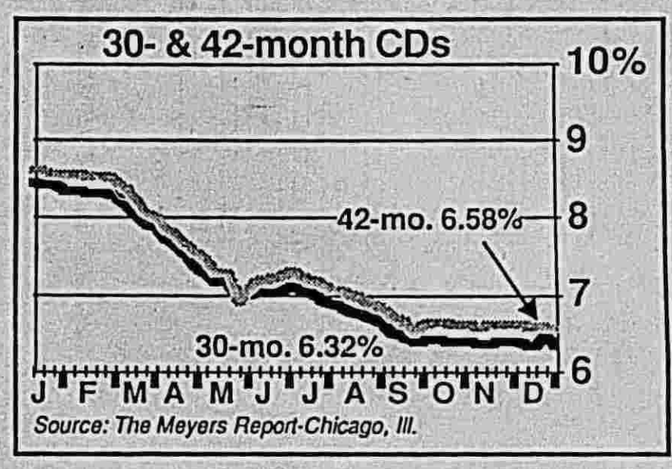

Brokerage firms, such as Dean Witter, also offer CDs. These CDs differ in that they provide safety and comparably high interest rates, but also provide flexibility to turn the CDs into cash whenever needed. These CDs are offered for $1,000 each and are FSLIC or FDIC insured up to $100,000 in your name.

By maintaining a secondary market, the brokerage firm will provide the ability to liquidate or sell the CDs before maturity without penalty. The price received may be more or less than originally paid, depending on market conditions at the time.

A large percentage of the outstanding CDs are purchased for a six-month term. Keeping the term short allows maximum liquidity while it also limits the rate of interest. A technique employed to provide investment liquidity while maximizing return is called the "Staggered CD Portfolio." The technique is illustrated below using a hypothetical $50,000 investment and is contrasted with the same $50,000 placed in a six-month CD. (Note: Rates shown are for illustrative purposes only and may change.)

| SINGLE TERM CD $50,000 |
| 6 Month |
| 6.00% |

The net result of the "Staggered CD Portfolio" is an average return of 7.37 percent versus the six percent of the six-month CD. While this alone is impressive, the "Staggered CD Portfolio" is also a hedge against rising and lowering interest rates. Liquidity is provided in that each year $10,000 matures and each consecutive certificate draws one year closer to maturity. Thus the maturing CD is rolled into the longer term (and higher interest bearing) instrument and the portfolio is maintained.

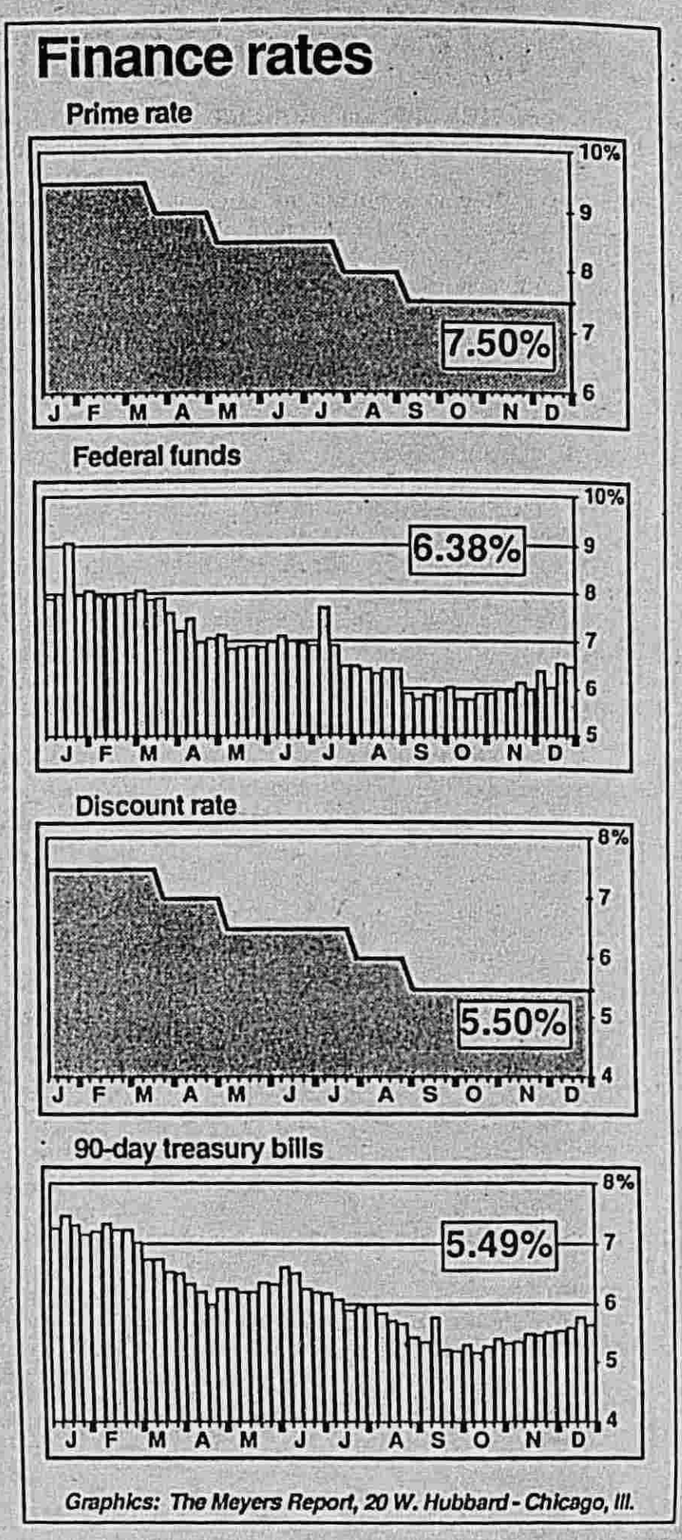

The Certificate of Deposit as a safe, fixed income investment is an important investment in the universe of a Diversified Investment Portfolio.

For more information, you may contact Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 2211 York Rd., Suite 100, Oak Brook, IL 60521.

| AMOUNT | STAGGERED CD PORTFOLIO TERM | RATES |

Cornucopia

There exist about 80 types of edible vegetables growing in the Andes Mountains, including the cherimoya, a fruit prized by the Incas. The tree tomato, a tangy version of the common tomato, grows on trees about six and a half feet tall.

Tax Laws Change Look Of Rental Properties

Real estate investors have long heralded the value of building up net worth by investing in real property. Yet many are hesitant to take the plunge by investing in individual properties.

Limited partnerships offer a way to invest in one or more large properties without the headaches of individual ownership. It is the responsibility of the general partner, or sponsor, to find, manage and ultimately sell the properties. He must also keep them filled with tenants.

The typical income partnership will run for 10 yaers during which time the limited partners (investors) will receive a portion of the rental income and capital gains. Thus the investment provides both cash flow and appreciation potential. While not typically generating tax-losses, depreciation will often reduce reportable income for tax purposes. This will contrast with tax-shelter programs which provide tax losses and little cash flow.

Some experts say that pending tax legislation will shrink the supply of new building. By making new construction less lucrative, this could eventually increase the value of existing properties and therefore increase profit on sales. Yet the limited partner must realize that the investment is a commitment for the life of the program.

As with any investment, it is important to invest in quality partnerships formed by quality sponsors. Experience counts!

The Year Was Slow-Paced But Advanced Solidly

by GARY S. MEYERS

The 1986 economy advanced like a plodding Clydesdale, slow-paced but with determinedly solid footing. Even with the distractions of big news headlines, both good and bad, nothing seemed able to change its course.

The year was generally good for the consumer's pocketbook. In most parts of the country, job opportunities and paychecks went up, while the cost of living stayed down.

—Personal income rose 4.14 percent over the last 12 months. This wasn't bad at all, as the Consumer Price Index, the measure of inflation, rose only 1.54 percent. The largest 12-month increases came in the cost of food and housing, up 4.37 percent and 1.89 percent, respectively. Transportation costs fell by 5.85 percent.

—Unemployment rose to 7.3 percent early in 1986 and then settled in for the rest of the year between 6.9 percent and seven percent.

—Mortgage interest rates dove. A year ago, the average interest on a 30-year fixed-rate loan was more than 11 percent. Today, 8.75 percent (and lower) fixed-rate mortgages are readily available.

Lower interest rates also have meant lower monthly payments. A typical $75,000 mortgage taken out a year ago at 11 percent cost $743 a month. But at 8.75 percent, the monthly outlay has fallen to $590, a savings of $153, or 21 percent.

Lower monthly payments mean more people can afford to buy homes. For borrowers to qualify for a mortgage, lenders require that the mortgage payment be no more than 28 percent of a buyer's gross income. Last year the gross annual income needed to qualify for a $75,000 mortgage at 11 percent was $31,843. At today's 8.75 percent, that same buyer needs only $25,286.

During this period, home prices rose only 2.5 percent, according to the National Assn. of Realtors. This slight price increase was outweighed by the drop in mortgage rates, meaning that you still would have a lower monthly payment for the same house today than you would a year ago.

—Auto loan rates also fell. In addition to ultra-low interest rates offered by dealers and manufacturers, the average 48-month auto loan at banks and S & Ls fell to 10.86 percent, from 13.25 percent last December. This would reduce the monthly payment for a typical $7,500 car loan to about $193, from $202.

—Falling interest rates made 1986 the year to own bonds. A $10,000 investment in a 30-year Treasury bond made a year ago today would yield $935 in interest and could be sold for about $11,628. Your total profit would be $2,[illegible]3—a 26 percent return. The same is true for A industrial and AA municipal bonds. If sold now, $10,000 investments in both would produce total profits of $2,308 and $3,032, respectively.

—On the downside, savers can't find super-high interest rates anymore. A year ago, nine percent on six-month CDs was common. Now, CD interest rates are at six percent or less.

—OPEC was in disarray and oil prices tumbled. Gasoline prices at the pump over the last 12 months fell to [illegible] cents from $1.24, according to the American Auto Club. The price dropped because the cost of a barrel of oil slid over 50 percent, from about $30 to under $15.

BUT THERE WAS A DOWNSIDE.

While lower prices were good news for most of the country, they were disastrous to the oil-producing states of Oklahoma and Texas. Jobs were lost and state and local governments were faced with declining tax revenues needed to cover state and local expenses.

In Beckham County, Okla., interim County Assessor Susan Bales says that unemployment is up 14 percent and land values have decreased by up to 30 percent, because so many oil-related businesses have moved out. "If it gets any worse, some of the smaller rural schools may have to close," she said.

—Bank failures abounded. In all, 126 banks and 30 savings and loan associations closed their doors for good this year. Those numbers would have been even greater without the "shotgun weddings" that rescued many S&Ls from failure.

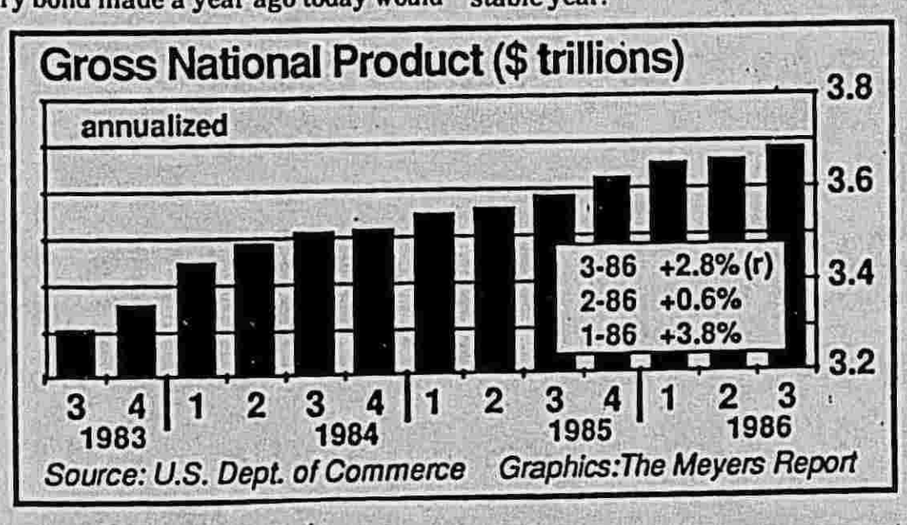

Depositors who had their money in federally insured institutions and in accounts of $100,000 or less lost nothing. However, those who went for the higher-interest accounts or who had money in uninsured banks, in Ohio and Maryland, found themselves up a very unpleasant creek.

SOME EVENTS WERE NON-EVENTS.

Stock market volatility became an everyday event in 1986. Movements in the Dow Jones industrial average of 100 points in a single week were common. (This occurred five times since The Meyers Report predicted in July that such movements would become more common.)

But the net effect on the small investor with long-term holdings was zero; 1986 was a stable year.

HMO's Are Business Of Modern Medicine

by GARY S. MEYERS

Health Maintenance Organizations might be the latest trend in American medical care–but like many good medicines, this cost-cutting prescription has some side effects.

The HMO idea is simple: Pay in advance for services when you are healthy, and redcuce or eliminate out-of-pocket expenses when you are really sick. And it's catching on. At the end of 1985, approximately 21 million Americans belonged to about 480 HMOs.

HMOs come in two basic varieties:

Group or staff. In these HMOs, patients go to a clinic and are seen by a salaried physician, working for the HMO.

"A major drawback here is that the patient will likely have to give up his current doctor. This can be traumatic," said Dr. Ron Innerfield of West Palm Beach, Fla. Innerfield has worked in HMO systems in New Jersey and Florida.

Some HMOs will virtually guarantee that you can establish a relationship with a single doctor. Others will not.

Independent Physicians Associations. Doctors in an IPA work in their own offices, are self-employed and can see patients not affiliated with the HMO. IPA patients can pay health-care premiums to a central organization, which pays the physicians a set portion of every premium for every one of their patients in the HMO. The HMO handles the billing and the marketing costs for the group of doctors it represents.

With an IPA, patients often can keep their present family doctor. "Your doctor will be a member of an IPA," said Innerfield. "Then the only change is the method of payment. Ask him."

Some IPAs are sponsored through physicians' groups or hospitals, while others are sponsored by profit or not-for-profit organizations, like Kaiser Permanente, Maxi-Care, Travelers Insurance, Blue Cross/Blue Shield and Prudential.

How they often work. New HMO members first choose a "primary care physician" who will keep tabs on the member's condition. This includes recommending preventive and wellness programs for continuing total health care–not just treatment when necessary. (The primary health care physician usually coordinates all other services with appropriate specialists.)

Periodic check-ups, office visits, diagnosis and treatment of illness and injury, lab tests and X-rays, immunizations and inoculations, minor surgical procedures, and eye and hearing exams are commonly covered at no additional cost through HMO programs.

"Often there is a nominal office visit charge of about $5 for exams and treatments," said John Sansone, spokesman for the Connecticut Dept. of Insurance.

Hospital stays. Bills for operations, recovery room costs, intensive care treatment, radiology, lab work, drugs and medicines within the hospital also are routinely picked up.

Maternity care, mental health, alcoholism and drug abuse treatment, emergency care, prescription drugs and other services are usually covered 100 percent.

Some states set minimums on in-patient coverage for alcohol dependency and mental illness. "Connecticut HMOs are required to cover patients for 45 days for treatment of alcoholism and 60 days for mental illness on an in-patient basis. After that, you may be on your own," said Sansone. "So check your plan carefully; they do vary."

At present, most HMOs exclude coverage for "items and services of personal comfort and convenience," like sex-change operations, sterility reversals, cosmetic surgery, most dental care, long-term services of physical or speech therapy, eye glasses and hearing aids.

But there's no telling how many of those items and services will eventually be covered as HMOs increase in strength and numbers.

Many individuals will continue traditional medical treatment and insurance programs. However, experts estimate that by 1990, 40 percent of the U.S. population will belong to HMOs.

HMOs don't just pop up. "Each (HMO) must be a corporation and be registered as such with the insurance commissioner of the state under the Health Care Centers Act," said Sansone. "Before getting state approval, HMOs must make clear their economic feasibility, marketing arrangements, financial wherewithal, general acceptance by area doctors, subscriber contracts and rates."

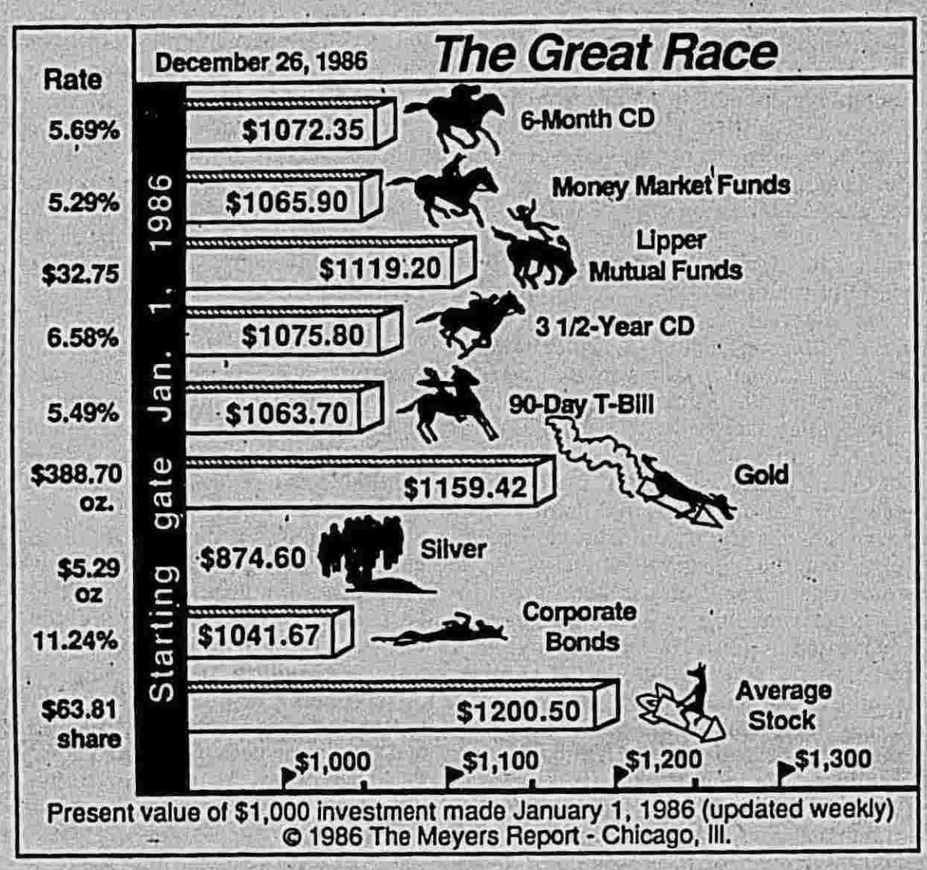

With heavy use of HMOs, there is less long-term hospitalization because of better management controls and the use of preventive services. In addition, more efficient outpatient work is replacing mandatory hospital confinement.

The drawbacks. "Although it's not necessarily true that you get what you pay for, it is most certainly true that if you pay less you get less," said Innerfield.

"Hippocratic oath or not, doctors are less inclined to get up in the middle of the night if there is no financial incentive," he said. "HMOs can deliver quality care. But they must have some sort of financial incentive system to better stimulate physician providers."

"Patients not able to get past the barriers of HMO systems may be in danger of being under-diagnosed or under-treated," said Dr. Robert Mendelsohn, author of several books criticizing modern medical practices.

"On the other hand," said Mendelsohn, "90 percent of modern medicine falls into the category of unproven rememdies, so without HMO systems, the chances are you'll be overdiagnosed or overtreated by a private doctor."

tability, Steady Growth Mark 1986 Economy

ll told, 1986 was a good year. Consumer ing power was up, American high nology made giant advances, the U.S. ar was down and American industry was rganizing and retooling to take on the rld.

Here is 1986 in review:

Consumers. Consumer spending drove the nomy this year. Personal consumption penditures are up six percent from a year o.

Personal income rose 4.14 percent over the st 12 months, while the Consumer Price dex , the measure of inflation, is up only 29 percent from last year. The largest creases came in the cost of food and ousing, up 4.37 p cent and 1.89 percent, espectively. Transportation costs fell by 85 percent.

Mortgage interest rates dove. Last year, a -year fixed-rate mortgage carried an in- erest rate of over 11 percent. Today, 8.75 ercent (and lower) fixed-rate mortgages re readily available.

More people were able to buy homes. When nterest rates were 11 percent, last January, he typical $75,000 mortage required a gross annual income of $31,843. But with an 8.75 percent rate, that same buyer needs an income of only $25,286 to qualify for a loan. At the same time, home prices rose only two-and-a-half percent, according to the National Assn. of Realtors. So even with the price increase, buyers were paying less for the same house today than a year ago.

Investors. In general, it was a good year to own stocks and bonds.

The Dow Jones industrial average is currently about 360 points higher than it was last January. The l ll market did buck a few times, as moveme s of 100 points in the Dow in a single week ecame common. (This occurred five time since the Meyers Report predicted that it w d, on July 2.)

The large stock arket fluctuations have been caused by computerized buy-sell programs at major investment institutions and by investors trying to second-guess a stable economy.

A $10,000 investment in a 30-year Treasury bond investment made a year ago today would yield $935 in interest and could be sold for about $11,628. Your total profit would have been $2,563—a 26 percent return.

The same happy results were true for AA industrial and AA municipal bonds (Standard & Poor's rating). If sold now, $10,000 investments here would have produced total profits of $2,308 and $3,032 respectively.

Unfortunately, savers couldn't find the super interest rates that made them happy only two years ago. A year ago, nine percent on two-year CDs was common. Now, CD interest rates are six percent or less.

Also, OPEC was in disarray and oil prices tumbled. The cost of a barrel of oil slid over 50 percent, from about $30 to under $15. Oil-related investments and enterprises in oil-producing areas suffered badly.

The week in review. Inflation is under control. The November Consumer Price Index rose 0.1 percent from October, up 1.29 percent from one year ago. This month, OPEC's attempts to pump up oil prices caused transportation costs to rise, accounting for the bulk of this month's minimal increase.

New orders for durable goods in November jumped by 5.9 percent from October, as the U.S. military went shopping for its Christmas toys. Excluding defense orders, durable goods rose by 0.6 percent. The November figure is up seven percent from a year ago.

Across the country, yields on CDs showed little movement from last week. Of the institutions in the nationwide survey, 10 percent raised their interest rates on six-month CDs, while eight percent lowered their rates. Those institutions raising and lowering interest rates on 30-month CDs were evenly split, at seven percent. Interest rates on five-year CDs were higher at eight percent of the institutions polled, and lower at one percent.

The nationwide average for a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage was down to 9.48 percent this week, as 31 percent of the lenders in the Meyers Report weekly national survey lowered their rates. Only one percent raised rates.

Auto loan interest rates continue to decline. This week the average interest on a 48-month new car loan is 10.83 percent. None of the lenders raised their rates, and seven percent lowered them.

Home-improvement loans rose slightly this week, to 12.77 percent. Interest rates were higher at two percent of the banks and S&Ls polled, and lower at an equal number.

Zero Coupon Bonds, A Lot For A Little

Tigers, cats, ETRs, etc.! No, they're not part of the zoo! They are coupons stripped from U.S. Treasury Bonds, sold at far less than face value. They represent a U.S. government future obligation and as such are fully guaranteed. As an example, a recent offering of these bonds by a nationwide brokerage firm offered a $1,000 face value bond with a due date of February, 2001 to be purchased at a cost of $352.10. Each year the bond increases in value until it is redeemed in February, 2001, for a full $1,000. And this with the safety of the U.S. government's guarantee!

Zero Coupons then are one of the most popular and safest vehicles for children's education funds, as well as for IRAs.

Several key elements need to be looked at closely, however. The Zero Coupon Treasury bond accrues value each year. This increase in value is as income (unless placed in a Tax-Deferred Vehicle) even though it provides no current cash flow. Second, if the bond is cashed in prior to the maturity date, the market value may be greater or smaller than the built-up value.

Zeros are also issued in both corporate and municipal bonds, but that will be discussed in Parts II and III of this series. All in all, Zero Coupon Treasurys are a marvelous financial vehicle for certain types of investments.

Choose Tax Preparer With Care

Many taxpayers have already received their tax packages from the IRS and are now ready to complete and file their tax return. If you are one of the many who pay someone else to prepare your tax return, the Internal Revenue Service offers some guidelines to follow when choosing a preparer.

Do not sign a blank return or one which is partially complete. These returns could be altered by the preparer. A tax return preparer is required by law to sign and date the return and to enter an identification number. You must be furnished a copy of the completed return. Preparers who promise a refund, claim a special relationship with the IRS, or boast of ways to beat the tax system should also be avoided.

The choosing of a preparer is particularly important because you, not the preparer, are responsible for the accuracy of your tax return. Most tax return preparers are honest and do not deliberately attempt to defraud either their clients or the IRS. However, a few misuse the responsibility of preparing a tax return for someone else. As much care should go into the choosing of a tax preparer as the selection of an attorney, doctor, or any other professional.

Funeral services for Nickolas P. Yost, 61, of Ingleside, were held on Saturday, Dec. 27, at the MacGillis Funeral Home in Round Lake.

Mr. Yost died on Monday, Dec. 22 at St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan. He was born on Feb. 12, 1925, in Elkhorn, Wis., and had been a resident of Ingleside for the past 40 years. He was employed as a tile setter for the Chain-O-Lakes Floor Covering Co. and Kadisak Tile Co.

Survivors include his wife, Larena (nee Redman); two daughters, Sandy (John) Peterson, Round Lake, and Susan Reuss, Ingleside; one son, Terry of Round Lake Beach; one brother, Paul (Frances) of California; his mother, Christina Yost of Round Lake Beach; and four grandchildren.

Interment was at Avon Centre Cemetery.

Beatrice Green

Funeral services with a Mass of Christian Burial for Beatrice M. Green, 69, of Antioch, was celebrated on Monday, Dec. 29 at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Antioch.

Mrs. Green died on Friday, Dec. 26 at Condell Memorial Hospital in Libertyville. She was born on Oct. 7, 1917, in Chicago, and moved to Antioch 38 years ago. Mrs. Green was a member of the Antioch Women's Club; active in the PM&L theatre group and in Scouting; a volunteer for the American Heart Assn. in Lake County; a senior lifesaying instructor at Antioch Aqua Center; member AARP and Senior Citizens of Antioch. She had worked as a nurses' aid at Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan for 15 years, retiring in 1979.

Survivors include her husband, Harry; one son, Timothy (Dianne); one daughter, Constance Green, both of Antioch; and one sister, Constance (Robert) Cotter of Morton Grove.

Interment was at All Saints Cemetery in Des Plaines.

Walter Bengson

Walter E. "Bud" Bengson, 54, died on Wednesday, Dec. 24 in Arizona.

Mr. Bengson had owned and operated Stadium Oil Co. in Round Lake Park for 30 years. He was a trustee for the Village of Round Lake Park, and a former Round Lake school board member.

Survivors include his wife, Rita; three children, Vicki (Ed) Markauskas of Grayslake; Michael (Peggy) Bengson, and Rick Bengson of Arizona; three grandchildren; and one brother, Ken, of Missouri.

Offer To Train Latchkey Kids

Sixty-four percent of Lake County mothers with school aged children are employed. This means that many area kids need help with after-school care. The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service conducted several workshops, "Latchkey Children and Their Parents," during 1986. The response was good, and to date 1,400 school children have received self-care training through teachers, volunteer leaders and PTO officers who participated in the program.

The training program will be offered again on Tuesday, Jan. 13 at 4 p.m. at the Extension Service Auditorium in Grayslake. Participants will view an excellent film, "Lord of the Locks," The film was produced especially for elementary school children and their parents. It highlights the seriousness of self-care and the need for responsible actions by both parent and child. (The film may be borrowed for showing to school or community groups.)

Instructional packets are also available. The training guides and handbooks were prepared by the Cooperative Extension Service and funded through a grant from Lake County Superintendent of Schools Sybil Yastrow. For those who would like more information, a 227-page curriculum is available from the University of Illinois which includes lesson plans, guidelines and numerous reference materials.

Interested parents, teachers, PTO officers and other concerned adults may enroll by calling (312)223-8627 after Jan. 5.

Seek Advocacy Volunteers

Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault (LaCasa) is accepting applications for its sexual assault victim advocacy and in-home hot line program. Training is provided to teach volunteers about rape trauma syndrome and the recovery process, and how to provide support for victims as they move through the medical, police and court systems. Training will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on 10 consecutive Mondays and Wednesdays beginning Jan. 19, at the council's Waukegan Center, 1105 Greenwood. A $30 fee covers the cost of materials. For more information, or to register, call Linda at (312)244-1187.

CLC To Exhibit Depression Era Artist's Unique Work

The College of Lake County (CLC) Community Gallery of Art presents "Henry Simon: WPA Artist" from Jan. 20 through Feb. 8. An opening reception for the exhibit will be held Friday, Jan. 16, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the gallery on the Grayslake campus.

Chicagoan Henry Simon, painter, printmaker, muralist, photographer and designer of electric signs, has been a prolific artist over his long career and continues to be even in his mid-80's. This exhibition focuses on the work produced by Simon from 1936 through 1942. During these years, Simon was employed by the Works Progress Administration (WPA) through its Illinois Federal Art Project.

The WPA, a governmental agency developed by the Roosevelt Administration, provided useful public work for needy unemployed persons. Artists were particularly hard hit by the Depression and in 1935, the Federal Art Project (FAP) was started as a branch of the WPA.

The FAP provided painters, sculptors and graphic artists with a monthly stipend. Often these artists created murals for public buildings such as post offices, schools, libraries and government bureaus.

Most of Simon's paintings and drawings on exhibit at CLC are preparatory works for the FAP's national and regional mural competitions or for Simon's mural commissions. His subject matter depicts aspects of American history, industry, agriculture and the perceived need for Social Security.

Much of the art created under the auspices of the WPA has either been lost, destroyed or forgotten. The purpose of this exhibit is to preserve and expose these historical works, and in doing so, throw light on a relatively recent but fading period of American art history.

During the opening reception, jazz/classical pianist Fred Simon, grandson of Henry Simon, will perform in the gallery. He will play compositions from his latest recording, "Short Story."

For information on gallery hours call (312) 223-6601, ext. 240.

More Than 60 New Laws Ring In The New Year

More than 60 new laws, on such topics as organ donations, teenage drinking, child abuse and "designer" drugs, went into effect in Illinois on Jan. 1, according to Senate Minority Whip Jack Schaffer (R-McHenry County).

Included among the new laws is a crackdown on Medicaid fraud inspired by the late Sen. Prescott Bloom (R-Peoria). Bloom posed as an unemployed drifter in Chicago in 1985 to learn firsthand the extent of the Medicaid fraud problem. His investigation prompted the Senate to form a special Select Committee on Medicaid Fraud.

Although Bloom died in a fire at his home last January, the select committee continued his efforts and the General Assembly approved a package of five anti-Medicaid fraud bills.

These measures (SB 2190-2194) streamline procedures for revoking the licenses of Medicaid providers who are guilty of fraud or substandard care; tighten procedures to discourage Medicaid recipients from overusing medical services; make it harder for a Medicaid provider who has been dropped from the approved list of providers to set up a new business and get back onto the rolls of approved providers; and give prosecutors new tools to investigate medicaid fraud.

Among other laws scheduled to take effect at the start of 1987 are the following:

—ANATOMICAL GIFTS (SB 233)–Designed to encourage organ donations, this new law requires hospital administrators to ask the next of kin to approve an organ donation when a suitable donor is found. It also provides immunity from prosecution for persons who act in good faith when soliciting an organ donation.

—CHILD ABUSE (SB 1491)–Gives the state more latitude to inform employers if an employee who works with children has been accused of child abuse in the past. Enables the state to suspend the professional licenses of dentists, nurses, physical therapists, doctors, psychologists, social workers and athletic trainers who abuse children. Allows the state to suspend the teaching certificates of persons who abuse children.

—HOME CONFINEMENT (SB 1563)–Gives judges the option of ordering a minor confined to his or her home as a condition of probation or discharge.

—FALSE ALARMS (SB 1570)–Makes it a crime to knowingly turn in a false request for an ambulance or paramedic.

—DRINKING PARTIES (SB 1576)–Makes it a crime for an adult to rent a motel or hotel room on behalf of minors, knowing that the room will be used for a drinking party by underage persons.

—DESIGNER DRUGS (SB 1815)–Closes loopholes in the law that enabled drug dealers to escape prosecution for selling "designer drugs." Such drugs produce the same effects as illegal controlled substances, but because the drugs have a slightly different chemical structure, dealers and manufacturers were able to avoid prosecution.

—ILLINOIS COAL (HB 2073, HB 3096)–The first bill creates a division of Coal Marketing within the state Dept. of Energy and Natural Resources to promote the use of Illinois coal both in the U.S. and around the world. The second grants a sales tax exemption for coal exploration and mining equipment. The exemption is similar to one already given for farm, printing and manufacturing equipment.

State Task Force To Seek Quality Child Care

Since most fathers and mothers must head for the workplace each day, our children's care has been entrusted to those who may--or may not--be providing the quality care our children truly need. That's why a newly-formed Day Care Task Force will investigate the problems and needs associated with child care in the state, State Rep. Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake) announced.

The work of the task force is especially urgent since the demand for quality day care has so quickly exceeded the supply. At no time in history have so many children come from homes in which both parents are employed. In fact, six out of every 10 mothers of preschool and school-age children are in the labor force. Of this group, the fastest-growing segment are mothers with infants. Nearly half of mothers with children under one year old now work, a figure that has increased by 95 percent since 1970. Of mothers with children under age three, 67 percent work full-time.

According to some statistics, more children are cared for outside the home than in it. Estimates of those in family day care range from 24 to 40 percent, with 10 to 20 percent in a day-care center. With that many children and their parents involved, family and community stability as well as employee effectiveness are heavily influenced by the availability of quality day care for working mothers and fathers.

The 47-member Task Force will carefully examine the quality of day care, and check into some of the broader factors surrounding day care issues, such as insurance, licensing and other regulatory matters. This is significant because a large number of day care operations are now exempt from licensing under the Illinois Child Care Act, and as a result these operations have little or no oversight. Exempt facilities include programs operated by church schools, some Montessori preschools, park district nurseries and day care homes having fewer than four children.

of course, many of these facilities provide excellent care for children, but since they aren't licensed or inspected, there is a risk of some children spending their days in places that are a threat to their health and safety. Licensing ensures that a facility meets minimum standards and is inspected at least once every two yers when its license must be renewed.

With the development of the Task Force, the State is asking the private sector as well as public agencies to help Illinois address an attempt to broaden the care children of working parents receive. The Task Force, which will be co-chaired by the Governer's wife, Jayne Thompson, will consider--with the help of corporate, academic, philanthropic and community leaders--other resources and new ways to provide day care services.

Fortunately, Illinois has already led the way in providing support for day care by spending mroe than $40 million for employment-related day care programs that will serve more than 20,000 children this year. In addition, the state already licenses and monitors more than 7,600 day care facilities.

Part of the solution can be found in facilities such as the day care center opened last May at the State's new Dept. of Revenue headquarters in Springfield. The Child Development Center currently serves 45 children of State government workers between the ages of two and five.

Despite the state's expanding efforts, more can be done in other areas to meet the growing need for high quality day care services demanded by working families, an issue that will be the focus of the Day Care Task Force when it begins work next month.

Eye Physicians Offer Help For The Elderly

Potentially blinding eye disease can be treated if detected early, a fact that 6,806 elderly Illinois residents have discovered through the National Eye Care Project (NECP).

Volunteer Illinois ophthalmologists have uncovered 972 cases of cataracts, 90 cases of glaucoma, 210 cases of macular degeneration and 40 cases of diabetic retinopathy among elderly Illinois residents who have called the toll-free Helpline, (800) 222-EYES (3937), to receive assistance through the NECP.

The public service, which offers medical eye care to the disadvantaged elderly at no out-of-pocket cost, is sponsored by the Illinois Assn. of Ophthalmology and the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

The NECP is available to U.S. citizens or legal residents, age 65 or over, who are not currently under the care of an ophthalmologist, and who have not seen one within the past three years.

Since the Illinois Helpline opened on April 14, more than 6,806 residents have called, resulting in more than 4,762 referrals of elderly patients to local volunteer eye physicians for medical examination and possible treatment for sight-threatening eye diseases.

More than 140,000 elderly Americans have called the toll-free Helpline number since the project opened in January. Amazingly, about 34 percent of those examined by ophthalmologists report that they had never before had a comprehensive medical eye examination. For another 20 percent, it had been more than five years since their last eye exam.

"We want elderly people to know that failing eyesight in their later years can be prevented or lessened through early diagnosis and treatment," said Merrill Greenberger, MD, president of the Illinois Assn. of Ophthalmology. "We are now able to repair or even replace certain parts of the eye by using sophisticated surgical tools and important new drug therapies."

More than 7,000 ophthalmologists are participating in the NECP. The Helpline is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Illinois and Wisconsin.

Happy Holidays

We wish you and your family the very best!

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE
BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: Don't depend on resolutions; look for real solutions instead.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr 19) A new aspect enters the picture as the new year begins. Business success builds as you make needed adjustments in answer to this.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) A shift in working procedures eases pressures. Don't put off making the change too long. The sooner the better for everyone.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) What seems to be a series of disappointing turns of event may simply be delaying tactics on the part of those who aren't sure what you want.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) Temper your expectations before they get out of hand. Demanding that those who made promises keep them immediately could backfire.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) Calls to friends you haven't seen during the holidays is a good way for you big Cats to chase the post gala blahs.

Virgo (Aug. 23.-Sept. 22) Time to tote up the past year's efforts and look forward to the new year's challenges. Personal situations require more attention than you expected.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct 22) New opportunities make new demands on your energies. Fortunately, you won't have to feel as if you're drowning under pressure.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Kin can cause some concern regardless of what you try to do for them. Continue to be supportive, but prepared to have to make adjustments.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) That old job problem seems to be recurring. This time, handle things without involving as many people. Go directly to the persons who can help.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Make this a healthy new year. A thorough medical checkup is a good way to start the year. Minor problems can be treated before they become serious.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Personal relationships could be in for a rocky ride. Smooth things over as much as you can before they get too rough to handle.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Count your blessings and then go ahead and count on those good friends who won't desert you in time of need.
